TIMES ARE GETTING BETTER.

After a Long Slumber Prosperity Has Commenced to Rise--Reports from Everywhere Show Improved Conditions.

The mercantile reports of Dun's and Bradstreet's agencies are busy just now The mercantile reports of Dun's and Bradstreet's agencies are busy just now hronicing widespread improvement in the conditions of business throughout the country. Whether business has gotten tired of waiting upon Congress for that tariff bill, or whether it has simply gotten tired of its own aloth and is coming to the surface after having touched bottom; whether either of these hypotheses is the case in a matter for conjecture, but certain it is that "laings are picking up." In Los Angeles there has hardly been a time when there has been more building than at present, and this activity reflecting; as it always does, upon the values of real estate, has sent those community—made values away up to boom figures. Reports from other parts of the East show that our returning prosperity is not a local thing but is prevalent all over the country. If you wish to see an instance of present-presentive in Los Angeles, call at M. German's jewelry store at 320 South Spring prevalent allower the country rity in Los Angeles, call at M. German's lewelry store at 320 South Spring and watch the rapidity at which jewelry is sold there, and note also the for which they are bought. These sales have been in progress now for upards of three months and the great stock is nearly gone, what there is left is of warus of three high quality and prime value and will be sold without the slightest regard to cost. Gold Watches, Chains. Diamonds, Semi-precious Stones, Solid Silverware, everyyou might find in a first-class jewelry stock is going at a clearance sale. It will last but a few days more. Auctioneer T. E. MUSKOGEE (I. T.,) June 19.—This afternoon officers brought in Jim Cook, shot as nearly to pieces as it is possible to be and live. He and his brother and another person undertook to hold up the Cherokee money on the road between Tahlequah and Fort Gibson last Sunday evening.

The Cherokee guards got onto the plot, and went in advance of the money. In the fight that ensued one of the guards was killed and Cook was shot in numerous places. Cook was too badly shot to escape, and was left by his friends to fall into the hands of the law.

a Few Remarks - A Short Meeting-The Work Cut Out for Today.

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—(Special Dispatch.) Amid the music of a merry medley by the band the delegates drifted into the big pavilion this afternoon. The great area in which the convention meets octagonal in form and backed with broad bands of red and white bunting, surmounted by a frieze of blue, spangled with stars. There are festoons of color over the heads of the statesmen, and behind the speaker's pedestal on a field of white are displayed portraits of Washington biger man than old Grant." The copious tion wreathed with evergreen, while above them drapings of the tri-color and groupings of flags add beauty to the spectacle There are no galleries, but the spectators are arranged around on seats in the real delegates and a long row of comfortable desks dropped below the chairman's rostrum give ample accommodations

As the delegates file in from the nume ous entrances the scene is at once animated and brilliant and as noted are seen in the aisles there are hand clappings and cheers. George Knight gets volley when he comes in, but Dan Burns clad in a summer suit and a white hat cool, debonnair and serene, fails of the honor, even if he is on this occasion "a bigger man than old Grant." The copious carpet of sawdust which adorns the floo makes applause of the heels a failure and only a smiting of the palms is available for the purpose of applause.

At 2:05 o'clock Chairman Meyer of the State Central Committee raps the convention to order and then a group of singers from a local opera company, led by Lena Crewes with a strong and resonant soprano voice, come to the front of the stage and sing the "Star-spangled Ban ner" with orchestral accompaniment amid great enthusiasm. At the conclusion of the singing, a delegate in the further row of seats jumps on his chair and propose a round of cheers for the old flag and they are given with a will. George Knight is nominated for chairman by P. B. Cornwall, the veteran of a dozen conventions, and, to the surprise of everybody, Mr. Short of Fresno fails to materialize as an opponent. The nom-inations are summarily closed and Knight is seated by acclamation—the first revolution of the wheels of the little old machine. Before anybody has a chance to nominate a secretary, Mr. Dare of Buck-ley and Burnsville, evidently half-scared to death, for fear the programme will slip a cog, moves for a Committee on Order of Business, but is choked off in short order, that Frank Ryan of Sacramento, may, as usual, be made the keeper the conditions of the conditions of

Gen. Murray of San Diego is recognized and makes a motion for a Committee on Credentials. The same thing occurs for some other fellow on a Platform Committee. Then a recess of twenty minutes is ordered that the Governor of California may be sent for to hoist his lightning rod before the enthralled gaze of the delegates, and he makes one of his famous hypnotic and soporific speeches that are as oily as flaxseed. Somebody wants to adjourn for brief recess, but Drury Malone says he is on a committee that needs lots of time to work in, and urges an adjournment until 10 o'clock tomorrow, which car ries. And then the Sixth Congress District Convention wandered off up to the Senate chamber, in the Capitol and nominated Jim McLachlan.

Tonight the great gorge of statesmen is on in the lobbies and bar-rooms of the Capitol and Golden Eagle Hotels, but it's all blasted nonsense, it seems to me for the goose is cooked and the action o Dan Burns will be duly ratified by the nomination of the much-mentioned Estee. nomination of the much-mentioned Estee. The kickers have worn badges and roared and kicked, but all in vain. Gang after gang of them have fallen down to the idol who pulls the strings, even Jim Rea and Jim Kelly of Santa Clara going over about noon today, with a dull, sickening third. It wouldn't surprise me a bit to see the Dolly Varden skirt dancer of 1871 go through tomorrow by acclamation.

Ed Niles, Walter Moore, George Gard, Editor Osborne, Hervey Lindley and slews of others are here as big as life, but not setting many rivers after so far.

There was a great hurrah about smashing the slate today, and dodgers were scat-tered among the delegates calling for an anti-boss meeting at Turverein Hall at 1 Octock in the interest of Short of Fresno for chairman, but Statesman Short got water-logged with river water or some-thing and failed to show up, and the thing, and failed to show up, and the thing petered out, to the great amusemen of the other fellows. So far everything has worked with mathematical precision and oleaginous smoothness. The ghost of a probability that Estee will not be nominated as quick as scat. Gen. FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION.

WASHINGTON, June 19 .- SENATE. today nees reported from the Finance Committee a resolution authorizing the translation and publication of the proceedings of the Berlin silver confer ence. The resolution was adopted. Sen-ator Allen's resolution directing the Secretary, of the Treasury to inform the Senate of the total number of persons engaged in protected industries of the United States whose wages are, or may be, claimed to be affected by the tariff legislation, encoun tered opposition on the Republican side. Senator Allen said it was not strange to him those who claimed every person the United States was affected for weal or woe by protection should oppose the pas-sage of a resolution that would determine how much falsity there The resolution went over and the tariff bill was taken up.

Upon suggestion of Senator Sherman the duty on ink and ink powders was increased to 25 per cent., to make it con firm to the rate on pigments.

At the request of Senator Allison the Finance Committee agreed to strike out the reciprocity provisions admitting buck-wheat, corn, cornmeal, oats, rye, rye flour, wheat and wheat flour free of duty from countries that impose no import duty on such products from the United States.

The Finance Committee agreed to Senator Allison's request to place eggs on the dutiable list at 3 cents per dozen. An amendment was agreed to making the duty on lithographic prints 27 to 45 cents per pound, according to thickness.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, introduced an amendment to increase the duty on hair-pencil brushes and festher dusters from 30 per cent. to 35, and to add at the end of the paragraph: "Bristles bunched or prepared in any manner, 71/2 cents ad valorem." This was agreed to, as was also the amendment changing the classification of gloves so as to make ladies' and childrens' gloves of sheep origin with exterior grain surface removed, not over 7 inches long, dutiable at the rate of $1.75 per dozen pairs; over 7 inches, $2.75 per dozen pairs.

Ambroid was added to the free list and salts of ammonia were stricken from the free list. The Finance Committee's am-endment permitting the free entry of cattle, sheep or other domestic animals, and their increase which had strayed or been driven across the boundary for pasturage

Jones's amendment placing manilla twine on the free list was agreed to.

Borax was stricken from the free list. The Jones amendment to paragraph No. 417 was adopted, the effect being to strike from the free list sweat leathers, bindings, bendings and the strength for bands and tips when cut to length for trimming felt or wool hats. Clay or earths, unwrought or unmanufactured not spe-cially provided for, were stricken from the free list. In the coal paragraph "bitumin-ous and shale and coal slack or culm" was stricken from the free list.

A provise was added to the paragraph placing eggs of birds, fish and insects on the free list so as to exclude the eggs of game birds, importation of which was prohibited except for scientific experiments. The Finance Committee amendments to paragraph 485 were withdrawn leaving Chinese matting on the free list.

Dates and pineapples were stricken from the free list; cocoanuts, Brazil nuts, cream nuts, palm nuts and palm-nut kernels were left on the free list. Dressed fur, suitable for use only in the manufacture of hatter's fur, was added to the

The yeas and nays were demanded by Senator Hill, and when Senator Jones offered the committee amendment to strike iron ore from the free list it was carried, 53 to 4, Messrs. Hill, Allen, Peffer and Kyle voting in the negative. Molasses, testing not above 40 deg. by the polariscope, was added to the free list.

Olives were stricken from the free list, and crude and unmanufactured opium containing 9 per cent, or over of morphia was ed on the free list. The committee window glass imported for the use of res, educational or scientific societies free list was agreed to.

The reciprocity provision added by the Finance Committee to paragraph 515, ing agricultural implements on the free ist was agreed to as was the provision added to No. 596, excluding theatrical scenery, properties and apparatus from admission free of duty, except where they are to be re-exported within six months, bond to be deposited for the payment of duty in case they remain in this country more than six months.

Senator Lodge moved to strike quicksilver from the free list and restore the duty of 10 cents per pound. Senator Persaid over $30,000,000 was invested in quicksilver mines. The amendment was adopted, 23 to 20. Quicksilver was placed on the dutiable list at 7 cents per pound on motion of Mr. Perkins without divis-to strike salt from the free list and make it dutiable at 5 cents per 100 pounds. At this point the Senate went into executive journed.

HOUSE.—The bill authorizing the Pittsburgh and Mansfield Company to construct a bridge across the Monongahela River at Pittsburgh was passed. There was also pased the House bill to donate certain lands belonging to an abandoned military reservation to the city of Newport. Ky, for a public park.

The House went into committee of the whole to consider the Anti-option Bill and Mr. Coombs of New York spoke in opposition to the measure. Mr. Sibley of Pennsylvania, followed in defense of the bill and Mr. Aldrich spoke against it.

At the conclusion of Mr. Aldrich's re-marks there remained but an hour of 5 o'clock and members were averse to splitting their speeches up in two installments, but at length Mr. Fletcher of Minnesota consented to fill in the interval and presented several letters from dealers in grain protesting against the bill. At 4:55 o'clock the House adjourned.

A SICKENING BLOW.

Senator Teller Causes a Sensation in Diamond Trust Circles.

NEW YORK, June 20.-The Press this morning prints the following:
"LONDON, June 19.—Senator proposed high tariff on diamonds is causing a sensation here, where the Rothschilds have recently (nearly $20,000,000) the bonds for (nearly $20,000,000) the bonds for the South African Diamond Trust. Besides these bonds the Rothschilds are known to be very largely interested in the si of the Diamond Trust. The proposed high tariff would produce a great fall in the value of the immense stock of unsold diamonds on hand and greatly reduce the div-idends to holders of the trust stocks, which for years past have been 25 per cent.

"A cable received by the officials trust from Premier Rhodes of the Cape Colony, it is stated, declares that Secretary Carlisle promised last March that the Senate would modify the high duty put on diamonds when the Wilson bill passed "Senator Teller's amendment, increasing the duty on diamonds to 30 per cent., is regarded as a blow aimed by the leader of the American free silver men at the Rothschilds, the leading bankers in Europe, who have done so much to maintain the single gold monetary standard. The Colorado Senators and ex-Speaker Reed have considered various forms of discrimina-ting duties against those countries which oppose an international agreement for the free use of silver." WAS PASSED OVER.

WASHINGTON, June 19 .- At the request of Senator Teller today, his amendment increase the duty on diamonds from 15 to 30 per cent. ad valorem, which would restore the rate fixed by the House in the Wilson bill, was passed over. It will be considered again before the bill is reported to the Senate.

He spoke at some length, saying that Los Angeles county had it in its power to nominate a candidate, but wished to give all the counties of the district an equal chance. In regard to the harbor question, Millard touched lightly on it, saying that a man was needed who believed in harbor aprovement and the construction of the icaragua Canal. This was the only reference to the harbor question, the main issue in the campaign. Millard made quite an eloquent effort, but did not go into de-tail, and the name of San Pedro was not

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Speeches of State Chairman Meyer and Gov.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Col. Burns sacramento, June 19.—Col. Burns captured the Republican convention in the casiest and most complete manner today. The organization of the convention was called up without the faintest struggle by the Chipman, McDonald or Preston clans. George A. Knight was made temporary chairman on a vice voce were but porary chairman on a viva voce vote, but few voices being raised in protest. Judge few voices being raised in protest. Judge Short was not placed in nomination against him. Nothing was done beyond effecting temporary organization and the appointment of standing committees. The feature of the session was the address of Gov. Markham, made in reonse to an invitation.

Minor features were the great heat and Minor features were the great heat and the fine impression that Chairman Knight made as presiding officer, though given but small opportunity to show his brass-throated voice. Fans waved vigorously during the entire session in a vain attempt to start a circulation of air, and an enterprising photographer, who wanted to take a picture of the convention, had a great deal of trouble to get the delegates to stop the vigorous waving. He succeeded only when Chairman Knight came to his aid.

There is not, however, the usual complaint of the aridity of Sacramento, for it is not near as hot as it can be or has been, and, besides, every possible courtesy has been afforded the delegates and visitors by the residents and every convenience offered the press.

The story of the day's developments is seen today. This morning it was announced that the opposition to Burns and Estee had at last united on a policy and was prepared to make a winning fight. Judge Short of Fresno was to be backed for chairman of the convention by the Chipman-McDonald-Preston combination. A determined effort was to be made to capture the convention organization and meanwhile the claims of the various candidates were to be held in abeyance. They could be settled afterwards. To that end-a meet-ing of the "anti-boss" element was called p.m., an hour was to assemble.

The meeting was in Turner Hall and ac of Sutter. He said it had been decide take no action at the meeting, but wait and make a fight on the floor of convention. He declared that the Decrats intended to nominate Jackson Tole for Governor. He is a very strong; and an equally strong man must placed against him. Personally, G ley said, he had nothing against Eb but he said he is everywhere regarded ley said, he had nothing against better, but he said he is everywhere regarded as weak political timber. Estee would lose one-third of the Republican vote and that would mean defeat. The Republicans must make a straight-out fight and not associate with third parties. They will have a hard fight, even with a strong candidate.

When he concluded the convention dis-When he concluded the convention dis-persed. The want of leadership on the part of the opposition was again conspicu-ously shown and led to its complete un-doing later at the convention. No one had been selected to lead the fight for Short or if he had been, he did not raise his voice. Burns and Estee carried the day by default.

or if he had been, he did not raise his voice. Burns and Estee carried the day by default.

The convention was called to order at 2 p. m. by Col. R. H. Meyers, chairman of the State Central Committee. He said:

"In response to a call made by the Republican State Central Committee on May 3, last we are assembled here. We are called upon to nominate a State ticket for our party, and I feel, gentlemen that you appreciate the great importance of this responsibility and that your wise and careful deliberations will result in presenting a ticket that will command the respect and confidence not only of the Republican party but of all good citizens of our State. But let us not deceive ourselves, We But let us not deceive ourselves. We have no easy fight before us, and we must not rest in our tents, for the present needs of our nation require an old-time fight for A recess for twenty minutes was then taken. On reassembling Gov. Markham, after a short delay, appeared and began his address.

GOV. MARKHAM'S SPEECH.

GOV. MARKHAM'S SPEECH.

Gov. Markham spoke as follows:
"Mr. Chairman and members of the convention: 'What a difference in the morning,' so to speak, or, to express it in better form, what a change four years can produce in a man's feelings. Four years ago I attended a Republican convention in this city. I really thought it the largest and best convention in the world. I was called upon to speak to it, and I pledge you my word it looked to me larger than Sherman's army, and twice as formidable. I cannot remember a single word I said, and God knows that I hope no one else can. I was frightened nearly to death at that time, but now I come before you feeling perfectly composed, and, while it was my desire to have you forget all I said at that time, what I say to you now you are at liberty to remember as long What a difference in the morn-s you live.

"Let me say to you that I was never "Let me say to you that I was never given an opportunity" of "accepting" that' nomination or of expressing to the members of that convention my sincere thanks for the kindness thus shown to me by that body. But I will say to you that from the hour of my nomination to the close of that campaign, every faculty of my being was brought into requisition that I might do all that was expected of me in that great fight for victory and success. Fellow Republicans, I did my success. Fellow Republicans, I did my very best. When the polls closed and the verdict was rendered, I was more thank-ful than ever to those who gave me the permission and authority to enter that great honors, together with corresponding responsibilities. Much more was expected of me than it was possible for me to accomplish. How well, how faithfully and how intelligently I have discharged the duties pertaining to this, the highest, and, in my judgment, the most honorable office in the gift of our people, you, not I, must be the judge. the judge.

"Fellow Republicans, you have a just right to demand of me at this time a strict account of my stewardship, which I will cheerfully render to you in a brief that campaign, these und: 'Whether I be this office.' This statement was rep tration to the present time. For repeat to you what I have so often that I consider political bribery the bribery in the world.

"An official may sell his official acts for money, but if known he may be impeached, indicted or sent to prison. But he can do just as disreputable a thing for political purposes and snap his finger in defiance of the law, If not a candidate for political purposes and snap his finger in defiance of the law, if not a candidate for re-election, that temptation at least is removed. On taking my office I was obliged to decide whether the office should be run as a political bureau or be devoted exclusively to legitimate State work, for I knew that I was not enough of a statesman or a good-enough politician to run both together and do justice to either. Therefore, the former was abandoned, and the latter has had my undivided attention. "Gentlemen, I have performed my work to the very best of my ability. I could do no better. I can do no more. I have given to the State my best efforts and I have faithfully striven to redeem every pledge made by my party to the people of the State on my behalf, and, gentlemen, while I ask no commendations at your hands, I do beg of you and of the people of this great State, irrespective of party, to charge all the defects of this administration of whatever nature or degree that properly belong to the chief executive, to me and me alone; for I have been the Governor, if I know the meaning of the term, and should be held responsible for my acts, and stand ready to assume them. I have made mistakes. That is not only natural, but it is too true. Yet, to be frank with you, the mistakes that I have been urged to make by many of our party friends, but did not make, will outbelance them an hundred fold.

"The last State convention made a great stride in the right direction" when it to make by many of our party friends, but did not make, will outstaince them an hundred fold.

"The last State convention made a great stride, in the right direction when it pleaged the party to principles of economic managements. It was a service pleage for me to make to the people of this State, knowing, as I do, the extravagant laws in force, that taxation should be limited to 50 cents on the $100 of valuation; and, notwithisfanding that it was impossible to know what the valuation was to be, it was neverbleless a wise-provision. Gentlemen, the vetoing of nearly $2,000,000 in the appropriation bills was a distasteful task for me in performance, and made me many enemies, but it had to be done that our piedge might be kept and the taxpayers be protected.

"I think that you should again place to me reasonable limit on expenditures beyond which your servants should not go, You should urge upon the next Legislature the importance of remodeling laws a governing all or nearly 31 our state institutions. As they now stand, each has a law and management unto itself. No two are alike. Sone proper steps should be limited to for the proposition in an interviewed.

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—The situation in its meturing due to feel of the Republican State Convention, rapidly the convention, rapidly to the proposition is fore that evention. The opposition has been able to combine on Short for chairman of the convention, and there will be a clean-cut test of strength between the followers of Burns and what is now known as the convention, and there will be a clean-cut test of strength between the followers of Burns and what is now known as the convention of Burns and what is now known as the convention of the convention of Burns and what is now known as the convention of the convent five years. This practice entails an enormous extra expense to our taxpayers..

"You should instruct your Legislature to cease the practice of making their different appropriation billa immediately available. It is this kind of legislation that depletes the money in the treasury, for it anticipates the levy and collection of taxes that should naturally cover the appropriations made in them. You should demand of them to turn over a new leaf and stop the unwarranted practice of throwing the money of the people away by making useless places for political supporters while the Legislature is in session and compel them to reduce many useless expenses so commonly practiced by legislative bodies.

"I am not speaking in a personal, complaining manner of our Legislatures. Far from it; but I call attention to it at this time because my experience has taught me that out State Legislature is of much greater importance than most of our people imagine.

"But enough of this. Gentlemen of the convention, you have a great and important work before you and I have every than most of our people imagine.

"But enough of this. Gentlemen of the convention, you have a great and important work before you and I have every confidence that you will throw all selfishness aside and give us a ticket that will command the respect of every honest citizen in this State. I have no pets and no candidates for any place, but after you have designated them, every one of them shall he my candidate from then until the votes declare them elected on the 6th day of November next.

"Let me beseech you, take time enough to do your work well. An extra day is nothing when compared with the importance of the work you have in hand. You owe it to yourselves, you owe it to your party and above all to the citizens of this State to give us a good ticket, and if you do we will sweep the State like a cyclone."

Chairman Knight then read the standing committees as follows:

The tactics of the opposition tomorrow have not yet been announced, and there is not, indeed, a great deal of interest in them, inasmuch as it is pretty generally conceded on all sides that the fight for Estate is already won. Nothing but a is not, indeed, a great deal of interest in them, inasmuch as it is pretty generally conceded on all sides that the fight for Estee is already won. Nothing but a marvelous mischance can defeat him. The talk tonight is that Estee will go in by acclamation, but it is not probable that either, Chipman or McDonald will thus "lie down." An effort is now being made to effect a combination on the first ballot, the opposition candidate developing the most strength shall receive the support of the others. That is to say, if Chipman has more votes than McDonald, the Tehama statesman thereafter shall receive the support of McDonald's followers, and vice versa. Of course the consummation of this arrangement depends upon the "anti-boas" element mustering enough votes to prevent a choice on the first ballot.

It is freely stated tonight that the "slate" for the Supreme bench, about which next to the Govemorship the main interest centers, is De Haven, Van Fleef and Henshaw. The story goes that the Los Angeles delegation has shelved Mc-Kinley, realizing that his fight is hopeless, and that it will support the Alameda candidate, Henshaw, in preference either to Torrance or Williams. It is further stated that the Alameda delegation made to Col. Burns such a showing of votes it could influence against Estee if he would not agree to throw his influence to Henshaw that he capitulated. In other words a trade has been made between Alaméda county and Burns for the mutual advantage of Estee and Henshaw. That is the story, and it is given for what it is worth. It is doubtless true so far as it relates to the retirement of McKinley.

James Rea has withdrawn form the contest for the contest fo

The Committee on Order of Business met today and quickly agreed upon its report. The programme is that, after the usual preliminaries and reports of committees, the nomination of Governor shall be taken up, and the rest of the ticket down to State Printer shall follow in the customary order. This disposes of the attempt to place the nomination of Supreme Court justices before the Governorship.

It looks now as though S. G. Millard of Los Angeles will get the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor. Ward of Los Angeles, for Superior Court Clerk, is making a strong fight.

At 3:49 o'clock the convention adjourned till 10 o'clock tomorrow.

A very lively contest took place between the Santa Cruz and Los Angeles delegations over an attempt to adjourn the convention to Santa Cruz in August. The motion was amended to make the place San Luis Objspo, and then voted down. The vote was: McLachlan, 84; Lindsay of Santa Cruz, 31; Gen. Sheddon, 6; H. T. Hazard, 3; J. J. Gosper, 2.

PRELIMINARIES

Speculation Before the Convention Opened-Gen. Chipman Interviewed.

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—The situation this morning, just before the meeting of interest, or McDonald's interest, or Pres-ton's, but it is for the common interest of interest, or McDonald's interest, or Preston's, but it is for the common interest of all. The issue now is not the Governorship, but the chairmanship; not the claims of any candidate, but the control of the convention. Short's candidacy stands for clean Republican politics; Knight's for machine politics, it is a fight in which we are entitled to and will, I think, receive the support of the majority of the convention. Mr. McDonald expressed similar sentiments, and both seemed to realize that a life-and-death struggle had come, and have staked their all on the issue; but they are still without leaders. There is some soreness among the Burns opposition to the action of the Alameda delegation. They claim they have been led to expect that Alameda would stand with them against Knight, but they concede that the sixty votes of Alameda, or a majority of them, will probably go to Knight; still they hopefully claim to be able to win the fight without them.

The opposition captured the session of the State League of Republican Editors this morning. About fifty editors were present. A resolution denouncing bossism and machine politics was introduced at the meeting yesterday, but, after a stragele, it was laid on the table. Today, however, it was taken from the table and a substitute, millder in tone, was passed. The Burns men say there is no significance in the action. Besides, they claim, the editors have organized mainly for the purpose of getting their hands in the political ple, and their utterances should not be taken as expressing the sentiment of the people of the interior of the State.

The text of the resolutions adopted by the Republican League of Republican, Newspapers of California is as follows:

"Resolved, that the administration of Gov. Markham merits the hearty approval of every Republican, and the California is as follows:

We believe that principles and candidates should come as directly from the people as possible and without the least possible dictation from any source, and that any such dictations shall be regarded by the league as a direct menace to the interests of the people of the State, and contrary to the principles of the Republican party."

Drafting a Bill for the Draughting of Nica ragua Canal.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The ommittee of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, appointed to draw up a bill for the construction of the Nicaregua Canal, was at work until late last hight, and now has more than half the bill drafted. A synopsis of the measure is as follows:

The old company shall call in and can-cel all its stock, cancel all outstanding obligations and contracts and extinguish all its debts, and when it shows, to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Treasury, that it is free from all obligations, he shall subscribe for $70,000,000 worth of stock and call in all the stock, except the $7,500,000 worth held by Nicaragua that the Alameda delegation made to Col. Burns such a showing of votes it could influence against Estee if he would not agree to throw his influence to Henshaw that he capitulated. In other words a trade has been made between Alameda county and Burns for the mutual advantage of Estee and Henshaw. That is the story, and it is given for what it is worth. It is doubtless true so far as it relates to the retirement of McKinley.

James Rea has withdrawn from the contest for Railroad Commissioner for the Third District. Some of his friends found it embarrassing, for political reasons, to support him, and he got out of the way. The delegation met and decided to support Congress. The delegates will vote as a unit for him. The district convention may meet tomorrow.

An account of the amount they have expended, and when this claim is proved to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Treasury stock equal to this amount shall be issued to them. This stock shall be non-assessable, and the government reserves the option of buying it at any time by paying not to exceed its par value. No dividend shall be declared on the stock except on the net earnings, and then it shall not exceed 4 per cent. The salary of the board of directors is fixed at $4000 a year.

The President, on the suggestion of the chief of engineers, shall detail three army officers from the United States Engineer Corps, one of whom shall be chief engineer in charge of the construction of the canal. He may detail such additional engineers as may be needed by the company in the transaction of its business. The intention is to have the bill provide for United States engineers making an estimate of the cost of construction of the canal in sections. The work shall be done substantially as river and harbor work is done here, except that it will be a continuous contract system. It is the intention to have the work begin at both ends of the canal at once.

The bill will provide for the issuance of $70,000,000 in bonds, to be disposed of as the work progresses, thus insuring means for the canal at once.

The bill will provide for the issuance of $70,000,000 will be $35,000,000, of which $7,500,000 will be held by Nicaragua and Costa Rica, $70,000,000 by the United States, and the balance of the amount shows to have been expended by the old stockholders.

Representative Geary says, as this bill is free from any suspicion of "jobs," he shows to have been expended by the old stockholders.

Representative Geary says, as this bill is free from any suspicion of "jobs," he thinks it can be passed at this session. It will provide that these terms must be accepted by the old stockholders within a reasonable time, and if this proposition is not accepted it will be the fault of these old stockholders.

Matt Byrnes, the $30,000 son of Hampton, heavily backed by his owner, Marcus Daly, to win the Washington Park classic, is reported to have suddenly gone lame. The colt is said to have stepped on a pebble at Jerome Park and spilt his hoof.

all other eligibles to the American Derby had but little show with Matt Byrnes and Senator Grady in the list of starters; but today when it was announced that Senator Grady was en route to Chicago without his stable-mate, Matt Byrnes, or even Daly's other Derby venture, Sam Lucas, a new turn of possibilities was given to the wheel of chance. This excitement was intensified by the rumor that, after all, James R. Keene would not send Domino and would probably depend on Hornpipe or El Telegrapho.

The fear of the great colt, Senator Grady, prime favorite for the Derby, is therefore much less reduced. Without Midgley or Matt Byrnes to help Senator Grady out in a possible contingency,

On the other hand, J. W. Rodger's Dorian is hourly becoming dangerous. Of all the Derby candidates, the colt is the only one that has had a race of Derby distance in public, and he easily had Sir Walter and Sport safe in the exercise gallop that the race proved to be. Both the animais Rodgers donated are four years old, and seasoned horses. Dorian comes of staying lines, and should the eastern division be further weakened by the absence of Domino, Grady and Dorian might make a team race of it.

A story comes from Hawthorne, which, if true, may further alter the complexion of the race. Carmichael's bay colt. Mor rill, owner of the famous little steam yacht Vamoose, has deposited $1000, and has issued a challenge to race the Vamoose against the steam yachts Norwood or Yankee Doodle, or any other boat, the race to be over the course of the American Yacht Club on July 4. The challeng holds good, and the money will remain up until midnight of July 1. If the weather on July 4 is unsatisfactory the owner of the Vamoose agrees to keep the boat at the starting point until it is satisfac-

Both the Vamoose and Norwood have made some fast time at different points of their career. In October, 1891, the Vamoose steamed over a measured mile in the sound in 2 min. 30 sec. When the wire by which the course was run was measured, it was found that it was several feet over a mile. So the yacht did even better than the time given. On November 2 of the same year the Norwood, then better than the time given. On November 2 of the same year the Norwood, then owned by Norman L. Murc, was started off. Staten Island. She made a mile in two minutes and one-fifth of a second. With the wind and tide against them she made it in two minutes and three-fifth of a second. Later, off Bay-Ridge, she is credited with having made a mile in two minutes and two-fiths of a second. The fiver Yankee Doodle has a record of a mile in two minutes, one and three-fifth seconds, on the Schuylkill River in 1892.

A Trainwreck at Stillman Valley, Ill., Results Disastrously.

CHICAGO, June 19.—In a wreck on the Chicago, Great Western road at Stillman Valley, four stable-boys were badly hurt, nine horses killed and seven injured. Following is the list of persons injured:

JOHN LAHEY, several ribs broken. THOMAS WINN, right side bruised.

JOHN RILEY, bruised and burned.

Probably the best horses in the car were Oakwood and Wightman, owned by James Cushman. The drawbar on one car pulled out and failing on the track derailed several cars, turning the one containing the horses over on its side.

The horses killed were Mary Dalsyrian, Little Fred, Monga, Twilight, Indigo, Panhandle and Azereat. The loss is esti-mated at $20,000. THE ASCOT.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service. NEW YORK, June 19.—It was get-away day at Morris Park, and the rich Bolipse stakes for two-year-olds and the Belmont stakes for three-year-olds were the attractions. When the flag fell after a long delay, Waltzer, the favorite, took the lead, closely followed by Sir Galahad and Connoisseur, and they raced in that position until the dlp was reached, when the latter wanted to quit, but Garrison began with whip and spurs and the coit concluded to go on.

At the last eighth Waltzer had enough of it and could not go any further in spite of Griffin's hard work. Then Garrison, on Connoisseur, and Simms, on Utica, challenged Sir Galahad and a furious drive ensued between the three leading jockeys in the race. The coits finished well tegether, Garrison fairly lifting his mount across the lines and readyto fall. Taral shook Simms off and got second place. Utica struggled along in

Kenna of the United States Circuit Court declined to interfere today with the dedision by Judge Ross of the Southern Disdision by Judge Ross of the Southern District in the case of the Commonwealers and the Industrial Army men now confined in the Los Angeles and neighboring county jails must consequently remain in prison.

J. Marion Brooks, attorney for the prisoners, waited upon Judge McKerna this morning with a petition vigand by 157 members of the Industrial Army now in jail, asking him, as presiding judge of the Court of Appeals, to grant a writ of habeas corpus. Judge McKenna declined the Court of Appeals, to grant a writ of habeas corpus. Judge McKenna declined to issue the writ, he being in doubt as to his jurisdiction in the matter. Attorney Brooks then filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court of Appeals a formal peti-tion for a writ of habbas corpus and it will come up for hearing before the en-tire court on the first Monday in July.

The petitioners allege illegality of im-prisonment owing to lack of jurisdiction of the sentencing court. They allege that the parties to the equity proceedings in which the Atlantic and Pacific Railway in which the Atlantic and Pacific Railway receivers were appointed, are neither residents nor citizens of California. Attorney Brooks states that all the imprisoned men are residents of Los Angeles or adjacent counties, honest and industrious citizens, whom he has known from childhood.

BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

OMAHA, June 19.—A break for liberty occurred among the Fort Siduey 'wealers at 2 o'clock this afternoon. mutiny and crime. Just before the vessel
Armitage applied for passage for himself gladly took them on board, as his own wife needed the services of a physician.

About a week ago, at sea, Mrs. Willcox gave birth to a child, and Armitage officiated as surgeon. He used instruments in such a manner that the child died, and the captain, seeing that he was unskilled as a physician, ordered him away from his wife.

Armitage appealed to the mate and crew, telling them that the captain was killing his wife. The crew, led by the mate, mutinied, and the captain, after being drugged, was locked up. He managed to get out just in time to see his wife die. Several times he was imprisoned by the crew, but he managed to break out. Armitage's real name is Eustace Alexander. tage's real name is Eustace Alexander He deserted his wife and baby at Sydney and fled to Newcastle with another wo man, where he joined the Invernie. Th man, where he joined the invernie. The bark, crew and passengers are now in the custody of the port warden, and the police will make the arrests this afternoon. Capt. Willcox told the following story

this afternoon of the troubles on board

"While the ship was lying at Newcastle, "While the ship was lying at Newcastle, N.S.W., my wife suggested to me that she come to San Francisco on the Mariposa, and that I could join her there on my arrival. I accordingly wrote to my brother in Tacoma, and he was to come to meet her. Before sailing time, however, Armitage came to me with a letter of introduction from the agents of the ship, and I agreed to take him and his wife, whom he described as a 'trained nurse.' After we agreed to take him and his wife, whom he described as a 'trained nurse.' After we had been out a few weeks I found that the first mate spent all the time he was on watch talking to 'Mrs. Armitage,' and when he was off watch she spent the most of her time in his cabin. While this was going on 'Dr. Armitage,' would be asleep on the deck.

"I wrote to the mate, telling him that when he was off watch he could do as he pleased, but that when he was on duty he must attend to his work and do what he was paid for. Then the trouble began. The mate and Armitage got the crew to side with them, and the only men I could depend on were the second mate and the carpenter. Things got so that I had to put some of the men in irons. Things were in this uncomfortable state when my wife was taken sick on Friday, June 8. She was not very bad, but grew worse up to Saturday afternoon. On Sunday morning i sent for Armitage, against the wishes of my wife. He came and said he would have to operate on her. When I saw him handle the instruments I knew he was no doctor, and told him so. My wife was then under the influence of chloroform, and I could do nothing. Then he began to butcher her, and finally he gave it up and said there was no hope. I was almost fainting, so one of them gave me a small glass of brandy. Whether it was drugged or not, I don't know, but I de know that after drinking it I was a raving lunatic. "When I came to my senses I was in irons and looked up in the forecastle. This was on Monday, June II. In the afternoon they brought the body of the dead baby to the door, and held it up at the grating for me to look at. A few hours later they dropped it overboard. All this time my wife was dying, and they would not let me out. With the aid of the carpenter I managed to break jail and made a rush for the cabin, where my wife lay. They jumped on me, acting on the mate's orders, and I was put in a strait-jacket. I worked out of the strait-jacket, and, with the aid of the second mate, got out again. This time four men caught me, and the mate jumped on me, and again I was ironed. "On the morning of last Saturday they eam to me and said that, if I would foron the deck.

"On the morning of last Saturday they came to me and said that, if I would for-give them, and promise to make no report against them, they would let me out. I agreed, and at 10 a.m. they set me at libagreed, and at 10 a.m. they set me at liberty. I at once went to my poor wife. What they had done to her while I was away I don't knew, but when I reached her she was unconscious. At. 6:30 o'clock Saturday night she died. The men have got up all sorts of stories, but what I tell you is the plain and unvarnished truth."

The sailors, headed by the first mats, have drawn up a series of charges against the captain, which they say they will lay before the British Consul. They say that he drank to excess during the voyage, and abused them on various occasions. Second Mate Jones is equally positive, however, that there is not one word of truth in the charges.

Your petitioners, for long year's past, have known him as a devoted husband, a good father, a just man, the friend of the fatherless and the widows and the comfort of those who mourn.

"In all the good works and charitable deeds placed to the credit of Staten Island and its people. Erastus Wyman has everbeen foremost. To those who were in sickness, in need, or adversity, his time, his advice and his money have ever been given. To the young man, struggling upward, and to the old ones, sinking downward, he has always been the hope and the help. The very children have been his care, and the poor women we have with us are in sorrow because his hour is dark and trouble has come upon him.

"Be merciful to this man, whose mercy has so largely been given to our service, and whose thought has been for our benefit. Be merciful to the sixty years of labor that are behind him. Capt. George W. Sumner—Dear Sir. I transmit herewith, for your information, a copy of the findings and opinion of the Court of Inquiry, which convened at the navy-yard, League Island, on the 5th inst., in pursuance of the department's order of the 4th idem, for the purpose of inquiring into the damage to the bottom of the U.S.S. Columbia, by grounding, the extent of which damage, and the time and place of the grounding of said vessel, by which the damage referred to was caused.

The proceedings, findings and opinion of the court have today been approved. The department regrets that it is compelled to fully concur in the opinion of the court, that it was the duty of the commanding officer to have been on the bridge when the vessel was passing Bulk Shoal, and it was also his duty to have caused the speed of the vessel to be reduced at that time. The speed over the bar, where the injury is found to have occurred, ought to have been slower, and especially when the fact is considered that, with the water she carried in her double bottom at the time, there was very small margin of safety. In view, however, of the recommendation of the court that no further proceedings be had, the matter will be regarded as closed, with your acknowledgement of the receipt of this communication. June 19.—Twenty-five local operators signed an agreement today to pay 60 cents per ton for mined coal and 48 for mine run. The Consolidated Company offers 50 cents but the miners demand 60. There is no immediate prospect of a settlement in the larger mines. The occasion for this rather curious mingling of nationalities was the annual pienic which all the good and some of the bad Chinese of New York and Brooklyn give to their pretty Sunday-school teachers and their friends. Last year, owing to the denunciation which the teaching of Mongolians by young white girls received from the press and pulpit, there was no pienic, but the one yesterday in point of numbers more than made up for John's disappointment at losing his fun last year.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Bailey Norris of Wyoming and George N. Sangers of Montana fought a duel this morning at Summit, twenty miles out of Chicago. Sangers was shot through the left shoulder, while a bullet from his revolver plowed a furrow through the right cheek of Norris. The men have been enemies for some time over a business matter.

Trimble was standing in front of its livery-stable today when Hutcheson came up. A few hot words passed between them and Trimble today when Hutcheson down with his fist. Then both men behald been fired. Yesterday they met at the stockyards, where they both had arrived with cattle, and a fight followed, in which revolvers were drawn, but no shots fired.

Friends separated them, however, and it was arranged to fight the matter out in some quiet place. Early this morning the two men, with their friends, went out to Summit on the Chicago and Alton road, and, finding a lonely spot near the drainage canal, prepored to fight at fifteen paces with revolvers. At the word "fire" the pistols rang out, and Norris was shot in the face. At the second shot Sangers got it through the shoulder, and although both men were anxious to keep on, the fight was stopped and the quarrel patched up. Both men left for St. Paul today.

The General Kept Them on His Desk on One Unfortunate Occasion.

A good story of Gen. Sheridan was told a Boston Herald man the other day by a Mexican, an intimate friend of the great Northern soldier in his Hifetime. One day, calling on the commander of the army at his office in Washington, he found him at his desk, his feet incased in slippers and his shoes democratically placed on the top of his desk. While the general was apparently absorbed in some writing, the Mexican gentleman, who thought some servant had left the warrior's shoes in the wrong place, took his cane and gently deposited the shoes on the floor. The next day the Mexican called again on Sheridan and found him at his desk, shoes on top as before. "Why. sir." said Sheridan, still annoyed, "yesterday, sir, I went out to walk after you had called on me. I was nearing the White House, when I noticed a gentleman looking at me intently. Soon he addressed me, saying: 'Excuse me, general, but aren't you afraid of catching cold?' Why, sir, no, not that I know of; what's the matter, sir?' 'Well,' said the gentleman, 'it is very damp and you are going about in your slippers.' I tell you, sir, 'said Sheridan, addressing his Mexican friend, "you make me ridiculous. It is my habit, sir to put my shoes on my desk where I cannot fail to see them, so I may not forget to put them on, and, confound it, sir, you come around here with your notions of propriety and send me around town in my slippers, sir!"

THE TIMES-MIRROR CO. SENATOR PEFFER'S PLEA FOR PATER-

Among the foolish and impracticable ideas which have been ventilated in Congress by Senator Peffer is a resolution intructing the Judiciary Committee to report whether the government could, by rirtue of an act of Congress, constitutionally take possession of all the coal beds of the country paying compensation therefor. Senator Peffer's idea was, of course that labor would be benefited by the change, but, how could anyone, except a demagogue entertain such an idea? How uld the ownership of the mines by the government increase the demand for coal or increase the consumption? How could the government afford to pay higher wages than the present operators pay un-less it wished to run the business at a loss? It is well known that the business of coal-mining is down to a pretty fine point, and that as a rule the profits are not enormous. Finally, would there be any less prospect of a strike in case government owned the mines than there is at present? It cannot be expected that government would change the nature of the men. It may be said that the gov rnment could easily suppress a strike, but so it can now in case of violence.

Senator Peffer's resolution is only another example of the erroneous idea which prevails so widely among a certain class of people in this country today that we must look to the general government for solution of all the troubles which afflict us, something in the same way that child runs to its mother with a sore inger. But the United States is no longer a child among the nations. It has reache estate, and its citizens must be prepared to depend upon themselves, otherwise this form of government is no likely to endure very much longer. It is dangerous symptom when American citizens forget that they are the sovereign people, and that through the ballot they ave the power of shaping their destiny to suit themselves. The only true and we are suffering lies in the purification the ballot and the independent exercise of the franchise by all good citizens ere are some things which the genera government may appropriately do, such as running the postoffice, and, possibly, the telegraph and railroads, but any paternalism that goes far beyond this point sign of weakness, not of strength.

STAND FAST FOR THE RIGHT.

As we look abroad over our growing city, and see signs of prosperity everywhere, note the great activity in building, the nees of trade, the complete stock of goods carried by our merchants, the which frequent their counters, making liberal purchases, and see the welldifficult for us to realize the reality of the hard times which almost everywhere else is resulting in general business depression, lack of employment among the masses and a prevalent feeling of anxiety as to the men who would be glad of work if they could find work to do-and we have where the stress of poverty is felt, but as apparent here as in most communities nor is the depression in business as great.

In spite of its being a dry year, and the consequent anticipated failure of some of our crops, building has never been so active here since the boom as it is at present, nor the class of houses which are being erected of so good a character. Im-provements are being made all along the ines of our streets and hundreds of men are probably very few carpenters idle in work to do, and the number of architects who have not some work upon their hands must be limited. The extreme stress of the hard times does not reach us, although our people feel the need of economy, and have many calls to assist the unfortunate was so much actual want in the country large as exists at present. The wheels so many industries have been stilled, and men have been seized with such spirit of restlessness and discontent that patience just now is not a controlling virtue and the American's respect for law appears to be at a discount among many of the unemployed.

Of course, it is a difficult thing for a man with an empty stomach and an empty pocket to exercise patience, especially when he has a family dependent upon him for support, but such a case the public is always ready to aid if the necessities of the case are made known. Humanity at large sympathetic and ready to relieve actual want. But the trouble in the pres-ondition of affairs is there is too and a demand for compulsory benevonee. America does not like "industrial mies" that are not industrious. She is t yet ready for compelled legislation.
e remembers that the people constitute e government, and sees the fallacy of e demand of government aid for the employed. When a man says "the govament must help me," he virtually declares "I must take money out of my own pocket to help myself," for he is just as much a fractional part of the government as any other man. And here is where the absurdity of this Coxey movement comes in. It is a fraction of the government fighting against itself. All the money under the control of the government comes from the people who constitute the powers

As we have before said, these armies marching through the land, determined to be fed at public expense, constitute a step toward anarchy, and they should be pressed. Some of them are threatening to come to this Coast, and have already turned their faces in this direction. they do come they must be dealt with de-cidedly, and the majesty of the law must be upheld. If the country had possessed a few more fearless officials like Judge Ross this army movement would have died out long ago. But now it has grown to immense proportions, and whether it can be suppressed without bloodshed is a prob lem for the future to solve.

When the American people are fully awake to the situation which confronts them we think that there is virtue and loyalty enough in the land to sustain law and put down lawlessness. But it will not answer for us to shut our eyes to the fact that the seeds of anarchy have been and are being sown broadcast throughout the land, and that ignorant aliens and demagogic agitators are busy nursing those seeds and waiting for an abundant har-

Never was there a greater demand for loyalty, for wise action, than at present. and he who is a mere time-server, seeking merely party emoluments and personal aggrandizement above public good, is worse than a traitor to his country and to mankind. The present is a time for men to make arinciple their rule of action, and to stand fast for the right.

THE CONGRESSIONAL OUTCOME.

The Sixth District Congress Convention has nominated James McLachlan of Pasa-dena. He received a large majority over all the opposing candidates—Sheldon, Haz-ard, Gosper and Lindsay of Santa Cruz. In fact, the opposition does not appear to have been "in it" at all. Sheldon had withdrawn, but was voted for by half a The result appears to be the Lindley campaign of two years ago over again. The contest before the people will not be a three or a four-cornered one. The Populists have a man (Bowman) in the field already; the Democrats will make a straight nomination, and it is possible that Myron Angel of San Luis Obispo will come out as an independent, which has been his purpose for several months past.

The convention refused, or failed, to adopt a resolution which was offered pledging its candidate's support to the government harbor site at San Pedro This we regard as a mistake and a weakness on the part of the delegates. MONETARY FALLACIES.

The growing belief that the existing de pression in the business world is largely due to the unsettled condition of the currency question has caused a great many to take interest in the relations of gold and silver to each other who had until recently, given the subject no attention. It is generally conceded that before we can hope for a complete revival in the business world the money question must be placed on something approaching to a satisfactory basis.

The Times has, on several occasions, expressed the opinion that the free-silver men and the monometallists are bot equally wrong in their views. The adopion of each of these courses would cer tainly involve the country in still greater trouble than that from which it suffers today. In an address on bimetallism, which was delivered in Boston recently by Francis A. Walker, he brought out very strong arguments to show that gold has appreciated steadily throughout the world, that the supply of gold is scarcely equal to the demand and that there is no excuse why the value of gold should be further forced up.

Mr. Walker said that he would not weary his audience by the recital of the various pleas by which the monometallists weary his audience by the recital of the various pleas by which the monometallists sought to evade the demonstration of figures that gold has risen largely in value as the result of the demonstration of silver. The demonstration of that fact abundantly appears in the tremendous fall in prices since 1872. Mr. Giffen, the highest living authority on commercial statistics, and himself a gold monometallist, admits that the non-monetary de-mands for gold at the present time al-most equal the entire annual production. In this connection Mr. Giffen quotes with approval the estimates of Ottomar Haupt, that it would require at least $70,000,000 in gold a year to keep up the stock and to supply the increasing wants of comcoming, and even the slight spurt of gold production in the United States and Africa, during the past two years, has not prevented the supply from becoming steadily less and less adequate to the deas these to show that some agrement among the nations on the money question is absolutely necessary in order to secure world. That such a monetary system is economically practicable, has really passed out of the field of dispute. The ablest Eupoean monometallists now generally admit the economic validity of the bimetallic argument. The sole remaining ques-tion is, then, whether international bimetallism is politically and diplomatically pear to be the case. The speaker said that, for one, although a strong bimetallist in opinion, he had entertained very little hope of any satisfactory solution of the problem, at least until the evils of increasing monometallism should be much more painfully manifested. But the remarkable change of public sentiment in England, during the past five, and especially during the past two years, in the direction of international bimetallism, has given rise to a reasonable hope that Enmighty financial influence and power to some rational and thoroughly practical scheme for restoring silver to its ancient place in the currencies of the world.

THE RUSSIAN EXTRADITION TREATY.

It will be remembered that before the extradition treaty with Russia was conof opposition to the treaty was developed in this country. That opposition has no disappeared, but has rather increased during the past few months. We have received a circular from a "Society for the Abrogation of the Russian Extradition Freaty," which has been formed, with an office in New York city. The circular calls attention to the fact that a resolution, asking the President to give notice the Russian government that United States desires to terminate the exsting treaty of extradition at as early date as may be, was introduced in the Senate by Senator Turple on May 31, and in the House of Representatives by Mr. Isidor Straus on June 1. Reference is also made to the case by Rabbi Krauskopf of Philadelphia, an American citizen, who, wishing to go to Russia fo the purpose of aiding persons of his race and religion to move from thickly populated parts of Russia to those more thinly settled, asked permission of the Russian government. His request, though a mat er of clear right under the treaty of 1833 was denied. In consequence of this refusal Mr. Rayner of Maryland, on May 28, introduced in the House a resolution asking, in case the Russian governmen should persist in its position, for th abrogation of all our treaties with Russia The petition, which is addressed to th President, Senate and House of Represe somewhat lengthy document, starts out by saying that the petitioners have gen eral as well as specific objections to any petitioners say: "We heartly approve of treaties extradition between States, whose politi-cal conditions and criminal jurisprudence rest upon analogous bases, and which have confidence in each other's judicial institutions. But, in the absence of such institutions. But, in the absence of such similarity and mutual confidence, we believe that an extradition treaty is more likely to create ill-feeling than to strengthen friendship, because the country by which the fugitives are surrendered will watch with jealousy and suspicion, and almost certain disapproval, any trial and punishment not conducted and executed according to its own methods, or else a like jealousy and suspicion will, in violation of the treaty, prevent a surrender.

"Between the political institutions the several nations which compose the civilized world there is no gap so great as that which separates those of Russia from those of the United States. The government of the United States owes its government of the United States owes its being to armed resistance to lawful authority, undertaken in support of the political maxim that "Taxation without representation is tyranny," and in the be-lief that it was better to destroy property and to shed blood than to submit to such tyranny."

The petition then goes on to recite that the Emperor of Russia is an absolute autocrat over more than one hundred million of people. His will is law. What he has made the law today he can unmake tomor ow. In Russia there is no writ of habeas corpus; the press is not free; there is trial by jury, but none in many provinces. Even where trial by jury prevails it is greatly restricted.

On May 9, 1878, crimes and offense against the persons of public function-aries, committed during the performance of their duties, or by reason thereof, were temporarily transferred to special tribunals. On July 7, 1889, many offenses chiefly those committed by or agains government employees, were also with rawn from trial by jury. Crimes against the Emperor and against the empire have never been submitted to jury. Such offenses are tried by special tribunals. An ukase of August 9, 1878, subjected them which they are generally tried in secret chambers, behind closed doors. No political case in Russia has been publicly tried by jury since 1878. The petition then gives extracts from severely any actions directed against the 'sacred person of the Lord Emperor,' the "rights of his autocratic power." are punished. Not only actions, but "evil in-tentions" are specified; and, furthermore, any failure on the part of outsiders to bring information regarding any against the Emperor is specified as a crime, which will be punished with various degrees of severe punishment, ranging from imprisonment in a fortress to transportation to Siberia, or death. The petitioners object to the first article of the treaty, in that it provides that a fugitive shall be surrendered to the Russian government upon "such evidence of criminality" as would justify our magistrates in committing him for trial here. They are willing to surrender fugitives for trial in Purel, when they cent, and are surrounded by every proof the treaty, which includes forgery among the extraditable offenses. The pe-titioners express the fear that some overzealous police officials, with or withouthe knowledge of the Russian government might seek to reclaim a political offender or suspect on the ground that he had committed forgery. The petition concludes committed forgery. The petition concludes as follows:

"Finally, remembering what the United States has achieved in the world, and at what cost; what the Russian government has been and is; and in view of the criminal jurisprudence in Russia, its arbitrary trials and severe penalities; in view of the insufficiency of safeguards made of paper, and of our distrust of the Russian police and detective agents, lest they should swear falsely from overzeal to serve their government; and more particularly having before us the fear that this treaty may be regarded as a token of sympathy with the present government of Russia, in its endeavor to repress all civil liberty, we earnestly and respectfully petition to have notice of abrogation given as soon as may conveniently be done."

It is true that there is a strong bond of It is true that there is a strong bond of sympathy, of a more or less sentimental character, between the United States and of that country toward this republic when it was not as great and powerful as it is today, and when it was in peril from internal enemies. It is true, however, that, as these petitioners say, there is a wider gap between the political institutions of Russia and those of the United States than that which separates any other two civilized countries of the world. This is a sober fact which must not be lost sight of or sacrificed to any friendly sentiment that of that fact any treaty which provides for the giving up of men and women who have come from Russia to take refuge in this country should be framed with the great est possible care, and should not be worded so that it can possibly be made to include those who have committed political crimes, which, in this country, would not be con of venal character, although in Russia they might subject a person to death, or o lifelong imprisonment in the icy fastnesses of Siberia, which is perhaps

The treaty in question was rushed too much haste, and since a case has arisen in which the Russian governmen appears to have broken one of the clauser of the agreement, it may be that this would be a good opportunity to review the entire treaty; but to abrogate the treaty be a mistake; it would be a measure not justified by the friendly relations that have subsisted and should subsist between these two great nations.

THE LANGUAGE OF ANIMALS

One of the most curious investigation that has been undertaken during the present century is that of Prof. Garner, efforts to study the monkey language have been described from time to time in The Times. Prof. Garnér's efforts are not confined to the monkey tribe. He studies all animals from the cat to the elephant, and has succeeded in phonographing the voice

Prof. Garner has already developed som interesting facts in regard to the language of animals. He has found that in propor-tion as animals have the habit of walking or standing erect, the vocal organs are more perfectly developed and constituted mals of this kind seem to have a more specific language. That the monkey has language of its own, Prof. Garner has proved to his entire satisfaction, and he s now able to converse with many of them, of course to a very limited extent. On of the most interesting discoveries which he has made is that several simple used by the chipanezee are identical with native words for the same thing. This certainly opens up an interesting field for new speculation and investigation in re gard to the derivation of species.

Those who deride the idea that the hu man race is descended from the apes are generally those who have not given the subject any investigation. It is a fact that in Hindostan there are tribes of apes—regarded sacred by the natives—who live in villages, building rough huts of branches and leaves, having their leaders and apparently their laws of some kind. They come in regularly to the native towns on certain days to collect allowances of food which are made to them by the natives. When a white man visits one of these monkey villages he is politely re-ceived by the chief of the apes, shown around, and given an intimation when it is time to leave.

This is one picture. On the other hand, in the interior of the island of Ceylon there is a tribe of human beings who live in very much after the style of those built by the Indian apes. The men and women of this tribe are thickly covered with hair and go entirely naked. In the way of speech they only have a few guttural notes. They live mostly in the recesses of the forest, only going in occasionally at night to the villages, when they leave a few products which they wish to exchange at the door of a house, returning the next night for anything that may have been placed there for them. Now who shall say where man begins and monkey ends between these two races of living beings? At any rate, who shall say that during thousands and hundreds of thousands of years the one race may not have been derived from the other. The investigations of Prof. Garner, which he considers as just a beginning, are certainly most interesting and promise to open up to us a new world which up to the present time has been shrouded in darkness and mystery.

Charlotte Perkins Stetson is now free to pursue the ignis fatuus of her ambition, fo another woman is tied to her husband and he can no longer stay the lofty flights of Charlotte's aspiring reason and fancy It's a great thing for genius in petticoats not to be shackled by a plain, common every-day man of clay.

The San Francisco papers have promptly come to the same conclusion as The Times in commenting on the telegraphed report that a treaty was to be concluded between Mexico and China, which would give the Chinese equal rights, with Mexi-cans in our neighboring republic. The Collector of the Port of San Francisco Collector of the Port of San Francisco shows that the expense of arresting Chinamen who smuggle themselves across the long frontier which separates Mexico from the United States would be immense, and that it would require a large army of men to keep the coolies out. When we consider that these Chinamen can earn from $1 to $1.75 in this country, while in Mexico they cannot earn more than 30 for trial in Russia, where they may be tried by court-martial, upon no greater evidence of guilt than is necessary to warrant a commitment here, where, upon trial, prisoners are assumed to be inno-

"THEM MAGNETS."

ashington Gossip About Pacific Railroad Affairs—Appropriation for San Pedro. A private letter from T. E. Gibbon, Esq., now in Washington, received here

Esq., now in Washington, received here yesterday, contains the following information on railway and harbor matters:

"I write to tell you that our matter is set for hearing before the Senate Committee on Commerce on the 19th. You are of course aware that the House River and Harbor Bill, as it went into the Senate, carried with it $40,000 for Wilmington Harbor. I believe Senator White considers the chances quite encouraging for getting this increased to a respectable amount, to begin the work of constructing a deep-water harbor. Any way, we will do our very best when the matter comes up for hearing. For your own information, I can say that I feel very confident that we have a safe majority of the Senate Committee for San Pedro, should anything be done. We have to face the question of a depleted treasury, but I am in hopes that the surplus of revenue promised by the tariff bill, in the form in which it goes through the Senate, will encourage Congress to give us a nice little sum this session. I can tell you one thing, and that is, that Mr. Huntington is going to have a good deal to look after besides the San Pedro Harbor before he gets through with his Pacific railroad matters. There is a very strong sentiment here, not by any means confined to Democrats, in favor of the government foreclosing its mortgage, taking possession of the Pacific railroads and organizing their management in a way which will permit their use by any company which may desire to run its trains to the Pacific Coast. Should that be done, I have a most positive assurance from people interested that the building of the line of railway from the Union Pacific in Utah to Los Angeles will be entered upon at once. Think what a magnificent thing it will be for California if this matter be carried out! The sentiment against for Huntington and the other Southern Pacific magnates goes further than this. There will be a strong effort made on the part of many men in both parties here to hold the private for tunes of these men responsible for the deficit w

"HONEST OLD ABE." His Reasons for Declining a Know-nothing

R. H. Ballinger, of Port Townsend, Washington contributes the following in-teresting reminiscence to the Seattle Post-

Washington contributes the following interesting reminiscence to the Seattle Post-Intelligeneer:

In 1854 a committee was appointed by the American party (Know-nothings) of Sangamon county, Ill., to inform Abraham Lincoln and Judge Stephen T. Logan that they had been selected by that party as candidates for the Legislature. A Mr. Wolgamet, myself and one other whose name I cannot recall, were members of that committee. We first called on Judge Logan and hat a very pleasant interview. The information was favorably received by him and the nomination cheerfully accepted. The committee, having interviewed one candidate, had no doubt of a favorable result with the other and younger candidate, Mr. Lincoln.

We walked up one flight of stairs on the west side of the square at Springfield, where stood the old Statehouse. The first thing attracted my attention was the old tin sign at the entrance, upon which was lettered "A. Lincoln, Attorney-at-Law." We passed above, along a hall running some fifty feet. At the western extremity was a door upon which was fastened a pasteboard card. The inscription, in pencil, declared it "Lincoln & Herndon's Law Office." We entered the office of the future great man. it-contained none of the paraphernalia of the modern law office. I do not believe the pine table, chairs and library were worth exceeding $150.

Mr. Lincoln was alone and received us with characteristic kindness. Mr. Wolgamot, after a while, stated our mission. It was so long ago that I cannot now give more than the substance of Mr. Lincoln's language. He stated that he had belonged to the old Whig party and must continue to do so until a better one arose to take its place. He could not become identified with the American party — they might two for him if they wanted to; so might the Democrats; yet he was not in sentiment with this new party. Then he took the question up more in detail and asked us who the native Americans were. "Do they not," he said, "wear the breechclout and carry the tomahawk? We pushed them from their turn upon others not fortunate enough to pushed them from their homes and now turn upon others not fortunate enough to come over as early as we or our fore-fathers. Gentlemen of the committee, your party is wrong in principle."

The convention lasted for some time, and I wished many times before Mr. Lincoln was through that I had refused to serve on the committee. His great, half melancholy, half sympathetic face was frequently lighted up and almost put one into a trance. The kindly twinkle of the eye, the attractive smile, told us there was more he wanted to say, and as nearly as I can remember he put it thus: "When this Know-nothing party first came up, I had an Irishman, Patrick by name, hoeing in my garden. One morning I was there with him, and he said, 'Mr. Lincoln, what about the Know-nothings?' I explained that they would possibly carry a few elections and disappear, and I asked Pat why he was not born in this country. 'Faith, Mr. Lincoln,' he replied, I wanted to be, but my mither wouldn't let me.'' Although Mr. Lincoln refused the nomination and Judge Logan accepted it, the former led in the race some 400 votes, and both were elected, after which Mr. Lincoln resigned to run for United States Senator, but was defeated by Judge Trumbull.

SUNDAY CLOSING. The Mayor of Chicago Vetoes a Proposed Ordinance.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Mayor Hopkins last night vetoed the ordinance closing certain stores on Sunday. Itis Honor holds that "the ordinance was not passed in obedience to a demand of the people for the preservation of peace and good order of society on Sunday by closing certain stores, but in consequence of the desire of certain employees of retail stores and barber-shops to procure by municipal enactment a much-needed day of rest. That desire is well justified and every legitimate means should be amployed to accomplish its fulfilment, but I cannot sanction a measure, which under the suise of a peace regulation for the preservation of the peace and good order of society on the Sabbath, so radically interferes with the private affairs of the citizens.

"The greatest measure of individual liberty compatable with the public welfare" he says "is too precious a principle of our government to be sacrificed to prohibitive municipal legislation, and this ordinance, should it become a law, would establish a precedent which, might some day become particularly obnoxious to labor itself. I cannot take the view that in a large city the keeping open of a shoestore or of a barber-shop disturbs the good order of society, however desirable the closing thereof may be from the standpoint of the overworked employed, in the interest of a religious observance of Sunday. THAT HAPBOR

The Claims of San Pedro and Santa Monica Presented at Washington.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(Special Dispatch.) The Chronicle's Washington correspondent wires that the Senate Committee on Commerce was in session today to hear representatives concerning the respective merits of Santa Monica and San Pedro as a place at which to build a breakwater on the coast near Los Angeles. Most of the session was consumed in the Pedro as a place at which to build a breakwater on the coast near Los Angeles. Most of the session was consumed in the presentation of Santa Monica's advantages by Corthell, a civil engineer, who estimates the cost of a breakwater at that place at $3,729,189, while he quoted the report made by the board of engineers showing that the cost of such a structure at San Pedro would be $4,83,440.

Engineer Raymond followed later in the afternoon, and presented the views of citizens of San Pedro. Messrs. Kerns, Patton and others were also present in behalf of that city. Senator White asked a number of questions, but the facts brought out were such as are already familiar to the public.

C. P. Huntington made a speech in favor of the breakwater scheme for Santa Monica. He began with patronising allusions to the other gentlemen, who had spoken before him, and, in referring to the large number of positions sent to Congress in favor of San Pedro, said he could doubtless have got together as many petitions for Santa Monica if he had had time.

Patton then interjected that Huntington men had tried very hard to get such petitions from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, but had been defeated by a heavy majority. As a result of the agitation of the subject by Huntington, it is probable that no appropriation will be made for either harbor. If it passes the Senate in favor of Huntington, it will be thrown out in the House.

FIFTY YEARS IN A TREE.

Where Billy Mustard Has Lived Ever Since He Lost His Sweetheart.

During the early years of the present century, one Joshua Dillaplanes came to Eastern Ohio from Pennsylvania and settled on 500 acres of ground that now constitutes a portion of Hanover and St. Clair townships. The land was clothed in a rich growth of primeval forest, watered by a rivulet now known as the Two-mile. On the west bank of this stream grew a majestic sycamore that towered many feet above its most ambitious companions. The tree Dillaplanes discovered to be hollow, and it is said that the settler took up his abode in the hollow and began clearing the land that now constitutes representative farms of the Miami Valley. In the meantime, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, a family named Mustard, soon followed by another named O'Malley, settled near the vicinity of the Millville pike. In the Mustard family was a boy whose name was William. The youth found a companion and playmate in the person of Anna O'Malley, a daughter of the nearest neighbor. The treachery of Indians and the scarcity of students prevented the inauguration of a district school, so the two grew to manhood and womanhood in the bilissful ignorance of books. The boy, however, became marvelously proficient with the violin, thus making up in one particular that which he so sadly lacked in many others. The young folks fell in love and in the course of time the wedding day a stranger, who said his name was Shay, appeared upon the scene. The new-comer appeared to be an object of wonder to the simple-minded country folk. His dress was elegant, his manner gentee', and his talk entertaining. He claimed to be a civil engineer, and boarded for awhile with the O'Malleys. In her environments the girl Anna had known only Billy and Billy's violin. This new specimen of manhood was to her like a new and pleasing dream. Soon her manner toward Mustard grew cold, but the lover was unsuspicious, and finally the wedding day dawned. One of the O'Malleys dritted to the same destiny and by the same path, for a few months after Anna's sudden departure vague rumors came from the East that Anna, deserted and friendless, had died a maniac in an asylum. Taking his only remaining companion, the violin, William Mustard followed the example set by Dillaplanes years before and sought shelter in the hollow of the tall sycamore, where he has remained off and on ever since. He talks but little, and then to himself, in an inaudible mumble in the dark recesses of this tree. He refuses all assistance, and those charitably inclined are compelled to resort to stratesy. When Mustard's frame, now nearly 70 years old, needs covering, a suit of clothes is left lying at the root of the historic sycamore. Even then the hermit trudges from door to door in vain search for the owner. Fourteen years ago a descendant of the Dillaplanes, upon selling the farm, made a special provision that no harm should betail the tree or the venerable hermit. Once the latter was taken to the poorhouse, but water and soap proved almost fatal, and he was again allowed to roam about his favored taken to the poorhouse, but water and soap proved almost fatal, and he was again allowed to roam about his favored haunts. Mustard is altogether a displeasing sight, his only redeeming feature being a pair of benevolent blue eyes, almost pathetic, that peer through massive eyebrows. When assured that a visitor who called to see him was not an infirmary director, the old hermit, in childish pride, exhibited the confines of his habitation. A ten-foot pole can be swung around in its interior, the furnishings of which consist of a little stove and a bed of straw. FOR SUMMER DRESSES.

The waist is a round one and a wide sash with ruffled ends, all of the material of the dress, is often added. A favorite trimming for sheer goods is an edging of flounces with very narrow real or imitation valenciennes lace. An airiness is given thus that no other arrangement produces. Wash-silk gowns are made with much simplicity, many being all in one piece, with bodice and skirt both "fulled" on to a band at the waist. The sleeves are-large and the skirt is made yoke-fashion, fitting snugly to about the knees and there finished by a deep ruffle to the ankle. A folded belt goes over the waistband and all but the belt can go into the tub with the ginghams. Cloth is made up severely, the tailor fashion prevailing. Coats below the knee are the most styfish and they open to show a correct little linen collar and tie.

A dainty summer cape is shown in today's illustration. It is composed of alternate cream suipure and mordore watered sifk flounces, and finished by a medici collar of moire. A big tulle bow, dotted with mordore spangles and edged with guipure lace is placed in front. The lining consists of cream-colored surah.

SUMMER MAIDS IN BLOUSES.

(From Our Regular New York Fashion Correspondent.)

Heavy unbleached linen made up with wide, white soutache braid is in great demand for trig summer tailor suits. A favorite pattern is that of skirt closely gored in front and at the sides and umbrella-shaped in back. Several rows of the braid in graduated widths finish the bottom of the skirt, which is sometimes silt up an inch or so to show a stiff white duck ruffle set on its under side.

The bodice fits closely in the back and at the sides. It is cut short at the waist line with a wee eton point at the back. A belt passes about the waist and through silts in the wide revers, which turn back in front from collar to waist line. This style of bodice especially suits a pretty, siender figure, the revers setting out crisply. A white silk shirt waist shows in front where the revers turn away. The belt is of wide soutache braid and is buckled in front with either silver or lovery clasps. The sleeves are of linen finishel at the wrist to match the edge of the skirt. Sometimes the jacket is sleeve-less, the sleeves of the silk shirt waist coming through the armholes. A sallor hat with wide white silk band and buckle like that of the belt and white gloves complete the costume. Linen canvas shoes, with silk stockings to match, are just the thing.

Never were blouse waists in greater favor that at present, and there are a great many styles of them in a still greater variety of stuffs. The pictured model is made of changeable satin merveilleux, the lining fastaning in the center and the outer stuff at the side. It has an imitated yoke, the shirring being hidden by narrow bands of ecru guipure insertion, and the right front is cut somewhat longer to cross over and fasten with a rosette of the satin and several ribbon ends and loops. The folded collar is trimmed with a buckle in the center and with rosettes, one on each side. The outs of the sleeves are also garnished with lace.

Women who cannot afford a number of these dressy garments will do well, therefore, to choose a color which is easily matched. For them the pale pink is a good selection.

This handsome dinner-gown has a skirt of sea-green and white-striped silk, figured with a small, black design. It is gored and left without trimming around the hem. The bodice is made of sea-green moire, and is alike in back and front. It is garnished with lace bretelles and white mousseline de soie plastrons, which fill in the opening, as shown. The short moire sleeve puffs are trimmed with a butterfly bow on each shoulder. Evening shoe should be perishable as well as daintily colored, Pale blue, rose pink and white are all attractive. There is a tendency to cut the low shoe, after the fashion of the Chappie's dancing "pump" with a somewhat high heel. Tiny Rhinestone buckles are now and then added.

"THE GREAT CRIME OF 1873."

[From an Occasional Contributor.]

The "conspiracy" theory of the free-silver men would never have found many believers but for the act of 1873 which, it is said, demonetized silver. Unless some one had an interest in doing so, why was it demonetized?

Few people have ever read that act through, and still fewer seem to know the history of the silver dollar before that time. A careful reading of that act in the light of the standing the silver dollar then had in the United States, as a practical had in the United States, as a practical coin, will satisfy most any one that silver was then demonetized because it had never been monetized. But free coinage was not taken away, and the legal-tender power of silver was preserved as far as it had ever practically existed. There is nothing about which as much history has been manufactured. And as long as people talk about it without reading it, history will continue to be manufactured. The act can be found in any large law library, and is at the Los Angeles Courthouse in two different volumes.

That so stupendous a crime as the passage of this act is alleged to have been could slip through the long file of watchdogs of the people's rights shows something very peculiar. It is not likely that the whole Congress was bought, or asleep, with such men as Senator Stewart on guard.

There was something peculiar, a very peculiar absence of anything to excite either interest or alarm. The vast amount of milk the coccanut contains has all been secreted since the empty shell was made for it in 1878.

is a myth, existing almost solely in the brains of modern free-sliver men, and in those days was never seen except at long intervals.

Over and over again the records of the mint have been published, and never disputed, showing that the total coinage of silver dollars from the beginning of the government up to 1873 was only about eleven millions of dollars, while the total coinage of other silver amounted to over one hundred and fifty millions. The great sacred dollar of our fathers was only about one-fifteenth of the total coinage of silver, and that total such a wretched little that we had to mix a dozen foreign coins with it to make enough, for change. It is moreover a matter of history never yet disputed, that all this time the silver dollar contained a little too much silver, and, that, after the discoveries of gold in Australia and California began to make the world afraid that gold was becoming too plenty, it was at a premium sufficient to keep it out of circulation. Almost every dollar dropped from the mint was either shipped abroad as bullion or consigned at once to the melting pot. In the East there was searcely a dollar of it in use and probably all of the eleven millions in use at all from 1849 to 1841 were not admired, especially small ones. Moreover, people in the East did not then and do not now like heavy coins of any kind, and preferred bills of one and two dollars to any silver.

I have not time to look up the old statues, but my recollection is that this dollar was a legal tender is used in business transactions only on disputed accounts. If the amount only is in dispute it is common to make a tender which, if properly made and kept good by payment into court, discharges interest and costs unless the plaintiff recovers judgment for a greater sum.

Now the silver dollar never was a practical legal tender it had no existence.

A legal tender is used in business transactions only on disputed accounts. If the amount only is in dispute it is common to make a tender which, if properly made and kept country not one was on the alert. And all the great statesmen, who generally owe more money, in proportion to assets, than any other people in the world, were equally blind to the glitter of Shylock's knife.

Earth felt the wound, and Nature from her knife.

"Earth felt the wound, and Nature from her seat, Sighing through all her works, gave signs of we that all was lost," but not till ten or fifteen years later, when the owners of silver nines wanted to get more for silver, through the law, than they would in the open market. The world turned itself upside down to demonetize a coin that never had an existence as a practical factor in the circulation of the United States; had been out of circulation entirely for many years, and probably would be for many more. It sent paid agents here to tamper with our Congress, a thing that it has not dared do in any other matter. To make such a conspiracy sure must have taken lots of money, but no one heard it lingle, and no one has yet discovered how the parties that furnished it have got it back with interest. And all this vast conspiracy, embracing so many hundreds of thousands of people, has been kept so quiet for so many years, and no one has yet betrayed one of its secrets, nor has any ambitious reporter unearthed a scrap of its papers. It would seem that, with a conspiracy so vast, so strong, so successful for so many years, and so profitable as it must be to all its members, but one sensible course remains for any one who cares for money, and that is to join it and draw his salary, while there is anything in the treasury to draw on.

Let us now consider another theory and see if we can't feel a little more hope for our country, a little more confidence in man, and somewhat more even in God.

In 1873 the statutes of the United States were undergoing revision. Among dozens of others which were scattered through the were undergoing revision. Among dozens of others which were scattered through the were undergoing revision. Among dozens of others which were scattered through the acts of years, and needed collecting together and some altering to suit the changes of business and of the times, were those relating to the coinage, the mints, their officers, the management, salaries and everything in any way connected with the making and handling of coin. As revised they make a document of nearly ten thousand words. Among many other changes five coins were dropped from the list of coins of the United States. Any one reading this will at least admit the strong possibility of the Committee on Revision reasoning as follows:

"Here is the fifty-dollar gold piece, too big, never in use except on the Pacific Coast, and very little there. We may as well drop it."

"Here is the old copper penny, antiquated and a nuisance; lets make a smaller one."

"Here is the silver three-cent piece, a

"Here is the silver three-cent piece, a nuisance and too small. We have no more use for that, and a five-cent coin is near enough."

"Here is the five-cent silver coin, too small and not generally liked. Let us substitute a larger piece of nickel."

"We have the silver dollar of 412½ grains. It never was in circulation to any extent except on the Pacific Coast. Once it contained too much silver and was at a premium. But silver has fallen some of late, and we had better put more in. 'Let us made a new model dollar with 420 grains of silver, call it, a trade dollar and give it free coinage."

Is there anything in this that an angel of light could not have properly done?

Let us see if there is anything more criminal, in the rest of their supposed reasoning.

Let us see if there is anything more criminal, in the rest of their supposed reasoning.

"Gold may as well remain full legal tender, as before, because it is so all over the world, but it must be at its real and not nominal value. There is no use of making nickels or coppers a legal tender for over five dollars, because no one ever uses them in amounts of any size. There is no reason why a debtor should be permitted to bother a creditor with large sums of money that is so much more easy to counterfeit, so much more apt to be short weight from greater handling, and from clipping and punching, and so much harder to test by weighing than the much heavier metal, gold. He can always get gold or greenbacks, and no one ever bothers another with a large amount of silver unless as a matter of spite."

Second, that prior to 1882, no one ever made a tender of any considerable amount in the second of the general scarcity of any silver dollars and on account of the general scarcity of any silver that was not short in weight, clipped, punched or otherwise objectionable, and therefore unasfe as a legal tender to distance the second of the general scarcity of any silver that was not short in weight, clipped, punched or otherwise objectionable, and therefore unasfe as a legal tender to distance the second of flavoration of the second of flavoration of the second of the by its own weight a value that it does not have in open market, even in our own country.

When in the fiftles the world thought gold was being found too easily, and that silver was the more stable metal, it was all right, and America had a right to agree with it. When on far stronger ground it thinks silver too easily got and gold the more stable metal, it is all wrong, and every American who thinks it is right or thinks we are not big enough to tell the world it is wrong while dealing with it to the extent we are, is a thief or a toady.

The West needs more money. The silver men will have unlimited silver or nothing. Many, like the writer, care not what it is as long as it is not so abundant as to make the people afraid of it and drive gold to a premium through the exchanges and out of circulation. But we will not get it by waving a last century's scarecrow any longer at the part of the country that has the men, the money and the business, while we luxuriate in the climate, the acreage and the expectations. The conspiracy nonsense has made its last convert, it lowers our brightest men who use it in Congress to the level of Peffer, and in the opinion of those to whom we must look for help classes us all with the Waites and Lewellings, Diggses, Lease, etc. We have now reached a point where we need help from people who can do something. The mouthing of our cause by long-haired men and short-haired women with a pack of, "yappers" that arrogate to themselves all the honesty, intelligence and patriotism in the country never did us any good, and can now only do us harm.

CPECIAL NOTICES-

A NEW GOLLD-MINING INVESTMENT-WE offer you a chance today to make a choice investment of $100 to $20,000; for every 6 cents invested you can certainly draw out 100 cents, within the next 3, 6 and 11 months; to convince you that this large profit is a certainty, and can be positively realized without a particle of risk, we will state that we are forming a syndicate to buy a group of 6 high-grade gold mines, the richest, perhaps, on this Coast; a large amount of ore has been taken out and laid on the dumps; the ore runs from $35 per ton upward; the value of the ore and amount has been fully determined; the ore smelts as easily as lead, and money is needed to buy and place upon these mines a smelter, and when placed will produce enough gold bullion in one week's run to pay for the mines and smelter; the stock can be had at a nominal figure, the money subscribed to be used in buying a smolter and operating the mines; there is but a little stock, all told, and it will be equally divided among the subscribers elect their own officers and manage the mines; all money subscribed to be paid in on date of election, and each doilar subscribed is doubly secured, in a way to be explained when you call to investigate; the amount of ore in sight and loose in these mines figures into the millions, and, with this amount of ore in sight and loose in these mines figures into the millions, and, with this amount of ore in sight, how can you expect to lose in making a small stock investment? The chances are the stock will be worth 20 times the price it cost you in one month after the smelter is planted on the mines. For full particulars, call on or address E. W. WOOD, rooms, 209 and 210, Stimson Block, Third and Spring sts.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF CALIFORNIA.

The National Bank of California is one of the few banks that successfully stood the shock of the late panic and maintained full coin payments right through.

The National Bank of California pays no interest on deposits in any form, offers no special inducements for business other than reliability when the customers exercise their right to demand their money.

In the matter of loans it looks more to reliability than high rates of interest, and desires no loans except from good and reliable parties, and then exacts good security, believing that no bank its better or more reliable, than its loans

Polk county is best provided with these curious wells, having between a dozen and twenty, which roar and ebb and flow with an unseen tide. The roaring of these remarkable curiosities (they cannot be called natural wonders, because they are the work of man, at least so far as excavation is concerned,) is caused by the inhalation and exhalation of immense quantities of air. There are hours, regular and uniform, in which the air will rush out with a loud, hissing sound, and again an equal space of time in which it seems that all the air of the Platte Valley will be sucked into the cavernous depths of these wonderful wells. NEW YORK, June 19.—The action taken by the New York city banks this afternoon in deciding to furnish gold for export as it may be needed, without resource to the United States treasury, will undoubtedly have a beneficial effect upon the Stock Exchange markets. There is need of something to put Ilfe into the share market. Yesterday was dull. Today was dull, but the trading was heavier. Union Pacific was ¾ and Sugar ¼ per cent. lower. Northern Pacific preferred declined 1½ per cent., and Oregon Short Line and other shares from ½0½ per cent. An attack: was made on Union Pacific by the hear traders, in the hope of bringing out the hong stock, and they were partially successful, for the shares broke from ½ per cent. at the close yesterday to ¾ per cent. with only a raily of ¾ per cent. at the close, making a loss of 2½-per cent. on the day. Rumors were put in circulation that there would be a heavy stock assessment under the reorganization plan, and that the United States government would force the payment of the United States debt. The bond market closed weak.

condence.) Prof. Dewar seems to have be power of developing as few men can the latent or unsuspected qualities of all sorts of materials. At one of his recent brilliant series of lectures in London, after liquefying and eventually solidifying a small quantity of air taken from the at-mosphere of his lecture-room, he described the way in which various substances change their state by slow, graduated alterations in external temperature. One most novel experiment was cracking ice by cooling it greatly below 32 deg. Fahr. Prof. Dewar poured some liquid oxy-gen over a mass of ice placed in the field of the lantern glass, and the projection on the screen was sharp enough to show the cracks which formed all over the sur-face when this artificial cooling took place. face when this artificial cooling took place. Ice was also shown to be a viscous body by producing "ice-wire" from the mass of ice contained in a recessed block placed under a hydraulic press, the block having one minute hole drilled in it, from which the ice exuded in the form of a homogeneous wire. It will not be long before many of these wonderful phenomena which are being popularized by Prof. Dewar will be turned to commercial account. Liquid oxygen is already in the market, and liquid air may soon follow. Some years ago the gen is already in the market, and liquid air may soon follow. Some years ago the late Paul Bert described his experiments on milk, and announced the fact that compressed oxygen prevented the coagulation, that is to say, the souring of milk, because it destroyed the germs or vibrions which produced the fermentation. M. Villon has now put his discovery into practice, and employs liquefied oxygen for the purpose of sterilizing milk. The liquid oxygen is supplied for the purpose in tubes which are actually an article of commerce. It is only fair to recall the fact that it is to French investigators that we owe this line of research. It is more than ten years since Leon Pictet liquefied these gases in Paris, and his name appears to have been almost overlooked by recent lecturers and writtens.

A London scientific journal gives the re sults of measurements made with a view strength in the right and left limbs. Of the men measured 50.9 per cent. had the right arm stronger than the left; 16.4 had the two arms of equal strength. to determine the relative length a d the two arms of equal strength, and 32.7 per cent. had the left stronger than the right. Of women, 46.9 per cent. had the right arm stronger than the left; 24.5 per cent. had the left stronger than the right, and 28.6 per cent. had arms of equal strength. In order to arrive at the average of length of limbs fifty skeletons were measured (twenty-five male and twenty-five female.) Of these 23 had the right arm and left leg longer, 6 the left arm and right leg, and 4 the right arm and right leg, and 4 the right arm and right leg. In seventeen cases all the members were more or less unequal in length. PRESERVING POTATOES BY A NEW PRESERVING POTATOES BY A NEW

In storing potatoes it is a difficult thing to prevent the tuber from germinating, or "sprouting" as it is commonly called. The method usually employed is to cut out the "eyes." The buds are skillfully The method usually employed is to cut out the "eyes." The buds are skillfully removed with the aid a knife, but the cuts do not always cicatrize, and an alteration of the tuber is the frequent consequence. M. Schribaux has discovered a better plan. He estimates as nearly as possible the quantity of water necessary for the bulk of potatoes to be treated, and pours it into a wooden receptacle—a trough for tub. To this water he adds 1 true to fee the commercial subhuric acid. per cent. of commercial sulphuric acid, marking 66 deg. B. The exact proportion of acid must be regulated by the kind of tuber operated upon; 1 per cent. suffices for the thin-skinned or kitchen garden varieties, but for those usually cultured in the field, which have a comparatively thick skin, as much as 2 per cent. of acid can be used. The patotoes are left in the acidulated liquid from ten to twelve hours, and are then washed in ordinary water and spread out to dry. While the suberose tissue of the skin of the potato protects the interior from the action of the acid, the tender germs which are devoid of such protection are eaten off. The subsequent effect is curious: Small protective cushions of suberose tissue form in the place formerly occupied by the germs. Potatoes treated thus have been known to keep without the sign of a sprout for a year and a half, and the economic value of M. Schribaux's process is placed at a high acidulated liquid from ten to twelve hours Schribaux's process is placed at a high standard by agricultural experts. A BINOCULAR CAMERA.

Another camera has been added to the list of those constructed after the form of a field glass. The new camera is actually list of those constructed after the form of a field glass. The new camera is actually a small field glass, and yet it contains a complete photographic apparatus, consisting of a rapid rectilinear lens, and instantaneous shutter and a dozen prepared dry plates or thirty films. It has also a finder or sighting glass, which permits of the exact size and appearance of the proposed picture being seen at the time of the pressing of the button. The size of plate taken is about two and a quarter inches by one and three-quarter inches. The plates are automatically and quickly changed by pulling out a small rod at the side of the camera, and as the shutter is also arranged to give time exposures, the instrument can be used for home portraits in ordinary rooms, as well as for taking pictures of moving objects in a good light and general outdoor work. As the "binocular" is held to the eyes while the picture is being taken the protograph exactly represents the view, as seen by a person of ordinary stature instead of as seen from a height of only some three feet above the ground. It is claimed for this instrument that its operator need know mothing of photography to get the best results from it; that it gives exact perspective; that single exposures can be taken out and developed independently of the bulk; that it is fitted with a safety shutter that keeps all light from the plate except at the moment of exposure; that the finder shows the picture without reversal and in any light; that the camera can be emptted and refilled in a few minutes; and, that when used in conjunction with a special enlarging apparatus, it is equivalent to an ordinary camera carrying twelve plates or thirty films, seven inches by five inches in size.

EXPERIMENTS ON LIVING ANIMALS. EXPERIMENTS ON LIVING ANIMALS.

EXPERIMENTS ON LIVING ANIMALS. The vivisection question, which has lately been discussed with much heat in England, appears to be one on which unanimity of judgment can never be hoped for. On the one hand, if it be necessary to medical science, it is evidently closely connected with the health of the community. On the other hand, if it be irreconcilable with moral conduct, it is the duty of the community to prevent it at any cost. On the admission of the most learned theologians, the infliction of pain and even of death is permissible under certain circumstances, and the consensus of opinion is that the pain inflicted in vivisection is justified by the beneficent results attained through its infliction in the fields of research alone—physiology, pathology, and therapeutics. One journal in taking up the cudgels for vivisection states that one of the most remarkable results ever immeditely obtained from it is the successful treatment of "myxoedema," a horrible and loathsome disease. The symptoms are a scurfy growth all over the skin, accompanied by the falling out of the hair, but the chief feature is a gradual loss of strength and development of the most painful kind of idicey, ending in death. Patients suffering from this complaint were formerly hidden away in The vivisection question, which has lately asylums. Now, thanks to vivisection, they are restored to health and sanity in the course of a few months. Previous to 1859 the action of the thyroid gland in the throat was an unsolved mystery. Patients suffering from gottre were, in many cases, treated by removing this gland and in all cases they died. Schiff of Geneva, a most eminent physiologist, experimented with dogs to see whether it was the removal of the thyroid gland that caused death and found that it was. Horabey took up Schiff's work, and discovered that the loss of the thyroid gland produced myxoedema in monkeys, and that they died of it. He succeeded, however, by grafting in a thyroid gland from a sheep, in curing the disease and averting death. Acting on this suggestion, Dr. Murray injected into a myxoedema patient an extract of the thyroid gland. The result was successful, and eventually it was found that a patient need only swallow this extract, and the cure of myxoedema was established. Very extensive work is being carried on in vivisection in Great Britain. The total number of experiments performed in 1833 was 4046. In 1201 cases the animal suffered no pain, because complete anaesthesia was maintained from before the commencement of the experiment until the animal was killed. In 2254 experiments, the pain of the operation (which was practically always of the nature) NEW YORK, June 9 .- (Special Correperfore the commencement of the experiment until the animal was killed. In 2254 experiments, the pain of the operation (which was practically always of the nature of hypodermic injection or inoculation) was trivial. It was always made a condition of the certificate under which these experiments were permitted that "if severs pain has been induced in an animal after any of the experiments have been performed under the certificate, and if the main result of the experiments has been attained, it is a condition of this license that the animal be immediately killed under anaesthetics." In 591 experiments, the animals were anaesthetized during the operation, but allowed to recover. These operations were performed with as much care as are similar operations upon the human subject, and as the wounds are dressed antiseptically no pain results during the healing process. HOW THE EYES OF THE TYPEWRITER

An eminent oculist says that type

An eminent oculist says that type-writing has an injurious effect upon the eyes. The operator is obliged to glance incessantly back and forth from the keyboard to the shorthand notes, and this is a muscular exercise of the most fatiguing sort. The oculist urges all type-writers to strive to become so familiar with the keys of their instrument that they shall be able to write without looking at the keyboard, with just the same certainty as the planist feels when he is looking at the music score and letting his fingers take care of themselves. This is a hint well worth taking, and there is no great difficulty about it. McGurrin, who has written over 150 words a minute blindfolded, says about it: "To the copyist four hours out of eight are saved, the work rendered pleasant and easy, the eyesight, which would be severely taxed by changing from the ceyboard to manuscript in finding the place, is preserved, and accuracy is severed. The ability to operate without looking at the keyboard possesses so many advantages in everyon of the ured. The ability to operate without looking at the keyboard possesses so many advantages in saving of time, labor and expense, and in lessing the liability to make errors, and is so comparatively easy of attainment, that in the near future operators who can do it will be the rule and not the exception." ELECTROTROPISM.

Electrotherapeutists are familiar with the fact that the effect of the electric current Electrotherapeutists are familiar with the fact that the effect of the electric current varies according to the "pole" from which it flows. The poles of a battery are termed respectively, the anode and the cathode. Current from the anode is soothingly sedative, while that from the cathode is exciting. The anode corresponds to the positive terminal, the cathode to the negative. It has been known for some time that certain animals living in water are affected in their position and in the direction of their movements by a constant electric current, but it is only recently that the subject has been systematically investigated. A number of observations have been collected by E. Blasius and F. Sweizer concerning this phenomenon of "electrotropism" and its exhibition in animals permanently or occasionally inhabiting water. The experiments made showed that with a current of 108 volts, when the head of a fish was turned toward the anode, calmness or even stupefaction ensued, while when this position was reversed, the fish became excited, tried to evade the stimulating effect, and promptly turned around in order to again enjoy the tranquilizing effect of the anode current. The curious fact was also observed that fishes, if transversely traversed by the current, exhibit symptoms analogous to those which occur in men in transverse galvanization of the head, as they always sink on the side turned toward the anode. In determining the therapeutic effect of currents from various sources, it was ascertained that the current from a dynamo.

The Collic Came for Help and the Newfound-land Responded to the Appeal.

When engaged in locating a railway in New Brunswick James Camden, a civil engineer, was compelled one night by a very severe snowstorm to take refuge in small farmhouse, says Forest and St The farmer owned two dogs—one an old Newfoundland and the other a collie. In due time the farmer and his family went to bed, the Newfoundland stretched him-self out by the chimney corner and Mr. Camden and the man with him rolled them-Camden and the man with him rolled themselves in their blankets on the floor in front of the fire. The door of the house was closed by a wooden latch and fastened by a bar placed across it. Mr. Camden and his man were just falling asleep when they heard the latch of the door raised. They did not get up immediately, and in a short time the latch was tried again. They waited a few minutes and then Mr. Camden rose, unfastened the door and looked out. Seeing nothing, he returned to his blankets, but did not replace the bar across the door. Two or three minutes later the latch was tried a third time. This time the door opened and the collie walked in. He pushed the door back, This time the door opened and the collie walked in. He pushed the door back, walked straight to the old Newfoundland and appeared to make some kind of a whispered communication to him. Mr. Camden lay still and, watched. The old dog rose and followed the other out of dog rose and followed the other out of the house. Both presently returned, driving, before them a valuable ram belonging to the farmer, which had become separated from the rest of the flock and was in danger of perishing in the storm. Now, how did the collie impart to the other dog a knowledge of the situation unless through some supersense unknown to us?

NIAGARA FALLS (N. Y.,) June 19.—
What is judged by railroad men to be an exceedingly clever attempt to swindle Western excursionists coming to Niagara Falls, has just come to light. Three handsomely gotten-up mileage books have been issued by the "New York and Niagara Falls Railway Company," that have every indication of being genuine. There is such a railway and the books have probably been printed by sharpers to sell to Westerners coming to the Falls and desiring of going further East. The book in the possession of railroad authorities bears the number 595. It has all the statements

RATES CUT.

DENVER, June 19.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, following the policy it has adopted during all big conventions for the past three years, tonight made another big slash at passenger rates to the National Convention of the League of Republican Clubs, to convente here next week. The round-trip rate from Chicago to Denver was reduced from $27.50 to $19.75; from St. Louis, to $17.25, from $22.50, and from Missouri River points to $10.75 from $15.

This cut was the result of the Santa Fe learning that two of the Western lines were making contracts under the figures recently agreed upon.

The League Executive Committee is confident this reduction will be the means of bringing a big attendance to the convention.

THOMPSON-CLARK.

A very pretty wedding took place Monday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark, of No. 130 Witmer street. It was the Clark, of No. 139 Wittner street. It was the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice M. Clark, to W. Hall Thompson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Campbell. Refreshments were served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left at once for San Francisco. After visiting the Midwinter Fair, they will go to Colorado to reside.

OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE FRESHMEN.

The reception of the freshman class of eccidental College last evening "capped the Occidental College last evening "capped the cilimax" of the season of receptions at the college. It was a success. The class had invited only members of the institution, and at 8 o'clock the guests assembled in the handsomely-decorated parlors, whence they proceeded to the college chapel. The "freshies" had an unique supprise for all. The class, composed of O. C. Mueller, W. L. Collier, F. J. Newton, Benton and Horace Longwill, C. C. Hawley, Pedro Recio, Walter Thompson, George Byram, and Misses Corinne McFarland and Grace McPherron, gradually emerged into the room, attired in exceedingly comical costumes. They sang an original comic class song, to the tune of "Old Lang Syne." The class debators, O. C. Mueller and H. L. Collier, then delivered a ludicrous debate, the question being, "Resolved, that nebular hypothesis has been proven by scientific principles." Other witty and interesting essays and orations were delivered by members of the class. An exceedingly well-written and appropriate essay was read by Miss Grace McPherron. The literary part of the programme ended with a laughable vocal duet, representing two ardent lovers, by W. L. Collier, and Benton Longwill. The climax" of the season of receptions at duet, representing two ardent lovers, by W. L. Collier and Benton Longwill. The audience was now requested to vacate the audience was now requested to vacate the chapel and proceed to the hall, where games awaited them. Soon the members of the class appeared upon the scene, bearing trays laden with delicious refreshments. After a few minutes of social conversation they dispersed for home. To day at 10:30 a.m. the regular commencement exercises will be held in the auditorium.

torium. SOCIETY THEATRICALS. One of the most enjoyable amateur theatrical performances ever given in this city in a long time took place at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Burnett of Twenty-third street last night. The play was "A Scrap of Paper," a comedy by J. Palgrave Simpson. The participants were all society young people of the West End, and they styled themselves the "Barnegat Theater Company." The play was given in the barn in the rear of the house.
The young men had been tireless in their refforts to make the affair a success and had fitted up a cute little stage complete in every detail. The interior of the barn was decorated with palms and pepper follage. A mandolin orchestra was stationed in a corner of the room near the stage. The ushers were: J. B. Emery, Douglas Burnett, Jack Carson, Leo Chandler. The gate-keeper was Carl Klokke. stage. The ushers were: J. B. Bmery, Douglas Burnett, Jack Carson, Leo Chandler. The gate-keeper was Carl Klokke. The audience was a large and fashionable one and the "Standing room only" sign was displayed long before the curtain rose. Neat programmes were given the guests. They contained a number of amusing suggestions, such as "gentlemen having friends outside will please wait for intermission. Cloves furnished by ushers," and "ushers are probibited from receiving fees." The players acted very well and the performance was given with greater smoothness than is frequently seen at professional first nights. The make-ups were excelled and in addition the gifts were all exceedingly pretty, and wore becoming gowns. Miss May Corson in the leading role was very clever. She acted with much vivacity.

Miss Bessie Bonsall in the juvenile role was quite piquant and made a lovely stage picture. Miss Marie Burnett and Miss B. Chandler did good work. The former was excellent in her scene with Suzanne, (Miss Corson.)

Theodore Burnett and Miss Ally Easton in minor roles were also satisfactory. Orr S. Cash, in the principal role quite distinguished himself.

Otto Wedemeyer, as the jealous husband, imparted great ferocity to some of his lines, and his Mephistophelean laugh was blood curdling in the extreme. J. Osgood was good in his part, as was also L. Wigmore. Cyril Wigmore made a most imposing butler.

A SACRED CANTATA.

"Pavid, the Shepherd Boy," a sacred cantata, under the direction of W. G. Taylor, was given for the benefit of the First English Lutheran Church last evening. The church was crowded and quite a sum was realized. The participants wore oriental costumes and acquitted themselves creditably.

BIBLE CLASS RECEPTION.

Methodist Episcopal Church gave a pleasant reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Jackson on Grand avenue Monday evening. The house was handsomely decorated. The drawing-rooms were in pink and white; the library in yellow. The dining-room was entirely in scarlet. An excellent literary programme was given, after which diplomas were presented to those completing the course. Instructor Rev. F. V. Fisher delivered an interesting address, and at its conclusion he was presented with several handsomely-bound books as a souvenir from the class.

At 10:40 o'clock last night an alarm, turned in from box No. 81, summoned the fire brigade to extinguish a lively blaze at the residence of J. E. Parker, a blacksmith, on West Twenty-First street, which was occasioned by the explosion or upsetting of a coal oil lamp. Parker had just returned home from a lodge meeting, and, after lighting a lamp in the front room, went to another room in the rear. Upon coming back for the lamp a few minutes later he found the room in flames, and, hastily arousing his family, made an effort to save some of his effects, while a neighbor ran to the nearest box and turned in an alarm. The fire gained such headway, however, before the engines arrived, that in spite of the efforts of the firemen the building, a seven-room frame cottage, and most of its contents were burned. The loss, which is estimated at $2000, was partially covered by insurance. The house was owned by F. Hoppe. smith, on West Twenty-First street, which

The Best Confidante.

It is all very well to talk about girl friends, brothers, or husbands being the confidantes in the world, but the one who is in reality the only true and sincere sympathizer and listener is one's mother. If you own such a rare and precious gift don't turn aside to pour your woes and your joys into other ears, for life contains no bond so true, no sympathy so ready and hearty as that which binds a mother's heart and soul to the interests of her children. Just as soon as you feel averse to telling your mother all that is in your heart you may rest assured that you are on the wrong track, and the sooner you turn back to the path from which you have strayed the pleasanter will be the days, the more blissfully dreamless the The Best Confidante. the more blissfully dreamless

Regular Monthly Inspection of the Police Force—The Bicycle Squad.

The regular monthly inspection of the police force was held on Third street, be-tween Broadway and Hill, at 11 o'clock resterday morning. Sixty-two officers and men were in line, inclusive of the mounted and bicycle squads. The "wheel" squad, which is a new feature, comparatively, which is a new feature, comparatively, promises to become a very valuable adjunct to the force, especially in cases of emergency. By way of an experiment, officers Rico, Bates, Benedict and Reynolds were dispatched on their wheels to the Arcade Depot from the parade ground, with instructions not to "race," and to dismount at the station. Benedict, unfortunately, met with an accident and did not go all the way, but the other three men made the round trip in 9 min. 20 sec., a very creditable showing, when it is convery creditable showing, when it is considered that the busiest part of town had to be traversed in order to reach the depot.

The men presented a smart appearance, and during their subsequent march down town, won many marks of approval.

MAJ. ALBERT WOODCOCK.

Died In This City After a Career of Hono

Major Albert Woodcock, who died in this city on Friday, June 15, had the past two years resided here, in such strict retirement, and so modestly, that but com-paratively few persons knew of his presence in the community, and still fewer perhaps how considerable a man he had ong been in Illinois, where his home was for nearly half a century.

perhaps how considerable a man he had long been in Illinois, where his home was for nearly half a century.

Albert Woodcock was born in Prescott, Canada, July 6, 1829, where in his youth good advantages of education were afforded him. When about entering upon manhood he came to the United States, and without loss of time made his way westward, and settled at Oregon, Ogle county, Illinois. Thus was he one of the early settlers. It was in the Rock River valley, a region then, and always since, famed as one of the most beautiful and fertile in America. Here he began life with intelligence and industry, and was not long in convincing his neighbors and the people generally, that he possessed decided talents for the discharge of public business. He was chosen to fill successively a number of minor positions in his town, and in consequence of the acceptable manner in which he performed the duties atached to them, his popularity grewapace. In 1856 he was elected County Treasurer, and he was re-elected to the same position in 1858. He was actively, in this later year, in the political campaign led by Abraham Lincoln in opposition to Stephen A. Douglas. It was from his published reminiscences of that renowned campaign that some of the historians of it largely drew for their facts. Only recently no less a writer than Murat Haistead alluded to those reminiscences in an article printed in Harper's Weekly, In 1861 Mr. Woodcock was elected County Clerk, an office whice he held for sixteen years consecutively. Early in the war of the rebellion he made an arrangement to have a deputy in the office conduct its affairs for three years, to allow him to go into the military service. He volunteered in the 92d regiment of Illinois mounted infantry, and was commissioned as major, and served with bravery to the close of the war. Upon the expiration of the last of his several terms as County Clerk, he was elected Probate Judge. President Grant in his second term appointed him Collector of Internal Revenue for the Congress district now r for the Congress district now represented by Robert R. Hilt. By President Arthur he was sent as United States Consul to Catonia, on the Island of Sicily. Upon re-turning from that service he passed a year in leisure in Washington, and while turning from that service he passed a year in leisure in Washington, and while there he was selected by the president and directors of the Union Pacific Railroad to be general land commissioner of that company, with headquarters at Omaha, a position he held for two years with great success. But now his health becoming much impaired, he was compelled to cease from active employments, and returned to Illinois, where he continued in favor of the people, and still exercised a great influence. Not, however, improving in health, he rather more than two years ago visited Los Angeles, and at that time resolved to try, by an experimental residence here, what the climate might, do for him. Even had his physical condition permitted it, he would probably not have resumed his former activities, for greatly as he was taken with this country, his mind and preferences were constantly for beautiful Oregon upon the banks of the Rock River, this charming place once celebrated in prose and poetry by Margaret Fuller. But until about five months since he had been entirely comfortable here; when his illness changed to much worse, and every week after that he rapidly declined till last Friday evening death ended his sufferings.

During the portion of his illnes that was severest he had the advantage of a physician in his own household, Dr. S. M. Hitt, son of Mrs. Woodcock by a former marriage. He was, too, attended in his last hours by Dr. A. J. Woodcock, his own son, also by a former marriage. Simple funeral services were held for the deceased on Monday afternoon, which were conducted by Rev. A. C. Williams, and attended by a number of our prominent citizens, including some Illinoisians residing here. Dr. Woodcock and Mrs. Woodcock started the same afternoon for the old home with the heady where it will siding here. POMONA.

A Teamster Named McGuire Injured by a Vicious Horse.

POMONA, June 19. — (Special Correspondence.) The Pomona news-gatherer for The Times is once more called upon to chronicle another accident, which resulted quite seriously to the occupant of the cart. The teamster, McGuire, was driving a horse attached to a roadcart yesterday afternoon, and, when near the Main-street crossing of the Southern Pacific track, the animal commenced to kick, finally striking McGuire on the jaw and chin. The horse's leg became fastened in the wheel, and McGuire was dragged several feet, while the horse continued to kick things loose. A physician was called to attend the injured man, and, while no bones were found to be broken, the leg of McGuire was sensitive to the slightest touch, and his injuries otherwise were apparently more or less severe.

The funeral of the late J. C. Aston will be Pomonans learned from the court news published in The Times of Saturday, that in Department One Judge Smith decided adversely to P. C. Tonner, in what is here known as the "Tonner whisky trial." in which he was fined $50 by Recorder Youngs.

The property on the east side of Thomas street, at its intersection with First street, has been considerably improved recently.

Almost anything in the way of fruits or vegetables can now be found in the Pomonalocal market. One of the local fruit-handlers is reported as having stated that two carloads of dried apricots have been sold, to be delivered by July 15, but at what price was not mentioned. This would necessitate the commencement of handling the "cota" by at least the ist of July, it would seem, in order to meet the future delivery engagement by the middle of the month.

There are fears entertained that, in some instances, the apricots will be smaller in size than they have usually been in this valley, on account of the greater number and the cool season.

There has been some talk upon the streets among the more charitably-disposed think-ers, of making an attempt to get the consent of the contributors toward the Fourth of July fund to agree to its being turned over into the treasury of the Associated Charities.

man Edinger ordered the vote taken by ayes and nays, with the following result: Ayes—Gallup, Menges; nays—Hunt, Hervey, Edinger.

The chair announced that the motion was lost, and Menges thereupon moved that ordinance No. 191 be amended so as to remove all screens, tables and chairs. Seconded by Gallup, Another roll-call ensued, and the result was the same as before. Messrs. Menges and Gallup having exhausted all means of embracing the principal features of the Pomona measure into the new ordinance, Menges now moved for the adoption of ordinance No. 191. His trusty companion, Mr. Gallup, seconded the motion with a good-natured smile, and the measure was passed unanimously, the laugh which rippled around the circle indicating that no ill feeling had resulted from the skirmish.

L. Goepper appeared before the board and complained that the water pipe from Halesworth street, north on West street, was too small to supply the increased number of consumers, and the matter was referred to Mr. Hervey.

D. F. Carpenter renewed his offer of five acres, including the artificial lake on First street, for park purposes. The park committee was not prepared to report.

Ordinance No. 182, fixing the license of itinerant peddlers of clothing, jeweiry, medicine, etc., at 350 per year in advance, or 55 per day, was read for the first time and referred to the City Attorney.

E. E. Keech, in behalf of the Board of Education, presented the deed for the new schoolhouse site in the Third Ward, which he desired to be approved by the Trustees. This matter was laid over to await advice from City Attorney West, who was absent, attending the State Republican Convention at Sacramento.

The board then adjourned.

PHILOMATHEAN FESTIVITIES.

At 11 a.m. on Friday last the Philomathean Club and its friends met at the residence of Mrs. R. S. Hewitt, on South Main street. At 12 m. the gentlemen, husbands of the members, arrived. Soon after the obstess announced that lunch was waiting, when all retired to the dining-room, where an elegant collation, prepared by the hostess and members of the club, was served in a royal manner. Good cheer prevailed for an hour or more, when the gentlemen took their leave. Promptly at 2 p.m. the president, Mrs. Twombly called the society to order. At roll-call each member responded to her name in a fitting manner by giving a quotation, at the conclusion of which the literary exercises were opened by a pleasing recitation, entitled "The Darkey's Prayer," by Mrs. Packard; then followed reading from noted authors by Mmss. Steadman, Hunting-ton, Waffie, Hewitt and Yount, and lastly, an essay by Mrs. Thelan. The society then adjourned all pronouncing Mrs. Hewitt a model entertainer and wishing her many happy returns of Philomathean day.

VENTURA.

VENTURA, June 18.—(Special Correspondence.) The pretty little Methodist Church at Montaivo has never before been the scene of a wedding, and it looked very attractive Tuesday with its pretty floral decorations, in honor of the marriage of Miss Sally A. Clay, cousin of Postmaster J. L. Argabrite, and C. W. Cannon, youngest son of Marion Cannon, the ceremony taking place in a bower of evergreens, which supported an exquisite foral tell, composed entirely of white roses. The church was crowded with guests. The musical selections from the fingers of Miss Mabel Kelsey served to pleasantly—white away the time during the preliminary wait. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Valentine stood up with the young couple. The bridal robe was of awn-colored slik, handsomely frimmed with orange blossoms, and enveloped a very charming-looking bride. The weedling party and intimate friends were banqueted at the Cannon residence, after the church service, and the presents were handsome and numerous.

Meiville D. Landon Talks of Pacific Coast Beauties.

(Chicago Tribune, June 7:) Passing through Chicago from Los Angeles, Cal., yesterday was Eli Perkins. When asked what was the most charming portion of his trip, Eli said: "It was delightful at Coronado Beach, San Diego. The ride along the Pacific Ocean from San Diego to Los Angeles, on the Santa Fe, was a dream. For miles, on the right were olive, palm and orange trees, while on the left the great Pacific waves, which had come from Japan and China, dashed against the track and sometimes sprinkled the cars with their white crests.

"At San Diego, living near Mrs. Gen, Grant, where the wife of the great general sat looking fifty miles into the ocean, we were invited to an afternoon tea to meet Mrs. Judge Alphonso Taft, whose husband had been Minister at the courts of St.
Petersburg and Vienna. The tea was in a bungalow, buried in bowers of roses and groves of palms and dates. 'Now,' said Mrs. Taft, I will show you some strange things. Here, right over our heads,' she said, looking up, 'is a castor bean that the farmers plant in Ohio, Kansas and Missouri, and which dies in the fall. But here, where there are no frosts, it grows for years. See, it is twenty-four inches in diameter, and loaded with hundreds of stems of ripe beans and new blossoms.

"And this,' continued Mrs. Taft, 'is a tomato whe forty feet long. It has been dreds of stems of ripe beans and new blossoms."

'And this,' continued Mrs. Taft, 'is a tomato vine forty feet long. It has been growing for years, and you see ripe tomatoes and blossoms, too. We pick them every day in the year—ripe and luscious.
'In another part of the garden," said Eli, 'Mrs. Dr. Edwards, the daughter, of Mrs. Taft, showed us perennial cotton, it was the same cotton we see in South Carolina or Georgia, but it grows for years, and until it finally becomes a tree—yes, a cotton tree, with white cotton dangling from the lower limbs, then come bolls and pink blossoms at the top. Mississippians and Texans, who plant this same cotton every spring only to see it cut down by the frost in October, would be amazed to see the same cotton a perenial tree and blossoming every day of the year."

is a larged to see the same cotton a percinial tree and blossoming every day of the year."

"What else interested you in California?"

"Well the beet sugar industry. I had seen the beet sugar plants at Norfolk and Grand Island in Nebraska. They are prosperious and would have doubled this year and other factories gone up in Columbus and Omaha had not the uncertainties of the Wilson bill paralyized the industry. They are 4 per cent. sweeter than they are in Germany and grow to prodigious size. Then they have all winter, where they have ne frosts, to harvest them. One of the most shameful things of modern times is the blasting of this $60,000,000 industry by a 2-cent Congress. California will never forgive our 7x9 Congress for slaughtering its sugar and sheep."

"Do the Californians complain?"

"Why, there is one spontaneous growl in California, New Mexico, Arisona and Oregon against our poor, pigeon-toed Congress. The other night when they threw a picture of Cleveland on a skirt dancer at the California Theater the whole audience hissed it away. Hawaii and the attack on wool and sugar have incensed California so that we Democrats will have no chance there again till the present voters die out. I am sorry we Democrata have thrown away our chances by turning prosperity to adversity. We ought to have known better.

"Speaking of new improvements in California," said Eli, "the building of the great Huntington pler and seawail at Santa Monica, the seaport of Los Angeles, is the most important. C. P. Huntington now takes freight, such as rice, silk, tes, and wool, from oriental steamships, rolls it on Southern Pacific cars, and transports it by this short route to New Orleans, where it is shipped on Huntington's steamships to New York, Boston, or Europe. It is the cheap freight rout between China, Japan and Australia and the New England and Southern States and England. Nothing but the Nicaragua Canal can ever compete with Mr. Huntington's Santa Monica route."

Lemon Culture in Italy.

Lemon Culture in Italy.

Maj. C. J. Berry of Visalia, has had correspondence lately with Consul Woodcock at Catania, Italy, on the subject of lemon culture there. The following from that source will prove interesting to California lemon-growers:

"Those orchards yield the best results which are most distant from the sea and are not of such an altitude as to be affected by frost. The rich valleys above the sea level, where an abundance of water can be had for irrigation, abound in the best orchards. Some orchards are very close to the seashore. Such a location is, of course, not desirable for the culture of this fruit. The trees so near the sea are more liable to disease, and the quality of the fruit is not so good as that of the orchards more distant.

"Artificial irrigation is necessary. In many instances it is elevated from wells by steam or mule power. The ground between the trees is cultivated at least five times between March and October. Vegetable crops between the trees are condemned. The trees produce an average of 1000 lemons annually. Cases are mentioned where trees produce ten times this number. The lemons gathered in November are the ones to hold for their keeping qualities. They are supposed to keep six months."

The Singular Death of Juan Capistrano.

Supposed to Have Fallen from His Horse While Drunk, but the Coroner's Jury Refuse to Render a

Coroner Cates received word yesterday from Justice O. L. Livesey of Fairmont to the effect that he (Liversey) had held an inquest at Gorman station upon the body of Juan Capistrano, a Mexican vaquero who died there Friday morning unde somewhat suspicious circumstances.

From the testimony of five witnesses it was gathered that the deceased, accom-panied by Francisco and Juan Jose Injio. rode into Gorman's Station Wednesday morning from La Liebre ranch. While there they drank pretty freely and quarreled as to which could rope and tie a steer the quickest, but were quieted down finally, and then they rode away. Each at that time had a flask of whisky. A few hours later the Injio brothers returned with Juan's horse and reported that Juan had been thrown and was badly hurt, his face. Supposing him to be dead drunk they rolled him over and left him there all night, but returned next morning and all night, but returned next morning and put him on the stage, which carried him up to Skinner's ranch. Dr. Kinkead was summoned, and found that the man was suffering from congestion of the brain and lungs and lock-jaw. There were wounds on both sides of his head, which might have been caused by his being dragged, if it was true that he fell from his horse. He never recovered consciousness, however, and died Friday morning. The fact that he was left out all night undoubtedly hastened his death, as the exposure increased the congestion.

As the Injio boys had separated, one going to Camulos and the other to Kern county, the jurors declined to return a verdict until they had heard what they had to say about the accident, and the inquest was accordingly postponed until June 29, in order that the men might be found meanwhile.

George F. Cox, the alleged paper drummer, who cashed a stolen draft for $20 at Godin's shoe store on Saturday night, was arraigned on the charge of embezzlement, and, in default of $200 bail, was remanded, to instre his appearance for trial on Friday next.

Max Harris and his young clerk, Ernest Comport, were arrested yesterday and taken before City Justice Austin, for arraignment upon the charge of having sold five lottery tickets to Officers Hanes, Heidt and Richards, three new policemen, on various dates recently. Owing to the absence of counsel, the arraignment of the defendants was postponed until today, bail being required in each case in the sum of $200.

He is Demented.

The only arrival registered at the County Jail yesterday was an old German named T. Aussen, who was locked up to await examination by the Lunacy Com-mission. The old man was brought in mission. The old man was brought in from Pasadena about a week ago and taken before Judge Clark for examination as to his sanity. At the suggestion of the physicians, he was sent out to the Sisters' Hospital for treatment, but on Monday night he escaped from that institution, and, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, presented himself at the office of Dr. Wernigk, one of the commissioners, who took him up to the jail.

What is Eczema?

It is an agony of agonies.

A torture of tortures. It is an itching and burning of the skin almost beyond endurance.

It is thousands of pin-headed vesicles filled with an acrid fluid, ever forming, ever bursting, ever flowing upon the raw excoriated skin.

No part of the human skin is exempt. It tortures, disfigures and humiliates more than all other skin diseases combined.

Tender babies are among its most numerous victims. They are often born with it.

Sleep and rest are out of the question.

Most remedies and the best phy sicians generally fail, even to relieve. If CUTICURA did no more than cure Eczema, it would be entitled to the gratitude of mankind.

It not only cures but A single application is often sufficient to afford instant relief, permit

To the lavish use of paint the great White City owes much of its world-wide renown. Our own city can become as famous if its houses are brightened by a judicious use of Jas. E. Patton's pure mixed paints at $1.50 per gallon, and floors and verandas painted with Princess floor paint at $1.25 will withstand the tread of an innumerable throng.
